Report Cross Rescuers Closing In

MONTREAL (UPI) — Army troops and police sealed off a four-block area today and surrounded a house where it was believed kidnaped British diplomat James R. Cross was being held prisoner.

Quebec provincial police said they believed that Cross was in the house and that negotiations for his release were being launched with the kidnapers.

The police and army troops launched "Operation Cordon" about 9 a.m. EST and began evacuating residents and school children before closing in on the two-story house.

Cross was kidnaped by the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) a terrorist organization seeking to separate Quebec from Canada, Oct. 5.

A second FLQ kidnap victim, Quebec Trade Minister Pierre Laporte was slain by his kidnapers less than two weeks after the Cross kidnaping.

In what appeared to be a preconceived plan, the army troops and police quickly cordoned off the residential area and evacuated the local elementary and high schools.

The school grounds were used as helicopter landing areas and additional forces were reported arriving on the scene. Bomb squad forces were rushed in to thwart any FLQ move to blow up the building in which the British Trade Commissioner is believed held. It was feared the house may be booby-trapped.

Riot fencing was being erected around the four-block area on the north side of the city by troops in combat garb.

Meanwhile, police also blocked off St. Helen's Island, site of Montreal's annual fair, Man and His World. The federal government has offered the kidnapers of Cross safe passage to Cuba in return for Cross' life and St. Helen's Island was the locale picked for such an exchange.

Cross was kidnaped Oct. 5 and his FLQ kidnapers demanded ransom of $500,000 in gold bullion and release of more than 20 FLQ terrorists in jail on various charges.

The federal government refused to accede to the kidnapers demands and on Oct. 10 Laporte was kidnaped from his suburban St. Lamert home. He was held hostage in a bungalow on Armstrong Street in St. Hubert, another Montreal suburb on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River. On Oct. 17 Laporte's body was found.

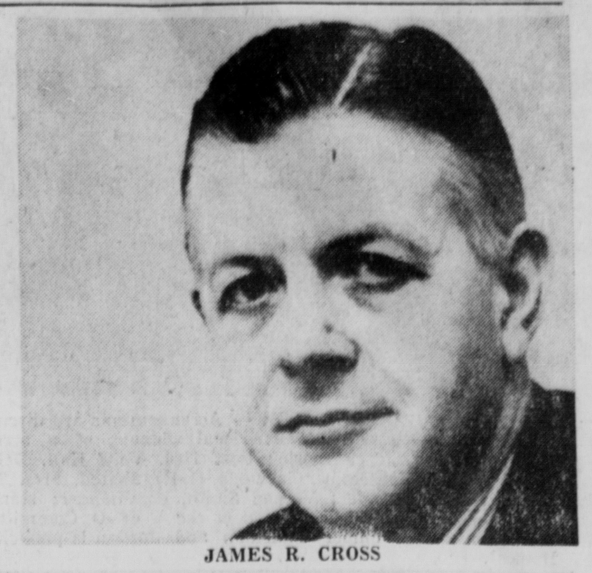

In the interim, the FLQ has released letters from Cross to his wife, now with friends in Berne, Switzerland, indicating that the British diplomat was still alive.

"We believe we have found Cross," Quebec provincial police said.

"We have reason to believe that Mr. Cross is alive and well," they said. "Arrangements between the authorities and the kidnapers are to be discussed."

Police concentrated on the two-story house on quiet, residential des Recollets Street while several hundred Canadian army troops, with bayonets unsheathed, lined the street. The technical bomb squad also was standing by.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, asked in Ottawa whether Cross had been found, said he expected "a break soon" in the nearly nine-week old kidnap case.

U.S. Defies Red Retaliatory Threats

Bank Suspects Are Returned to Connecticut

Three bank robbery suspects captured at a roadblock in Pawling after a 50-mile high speed shooting chase through areas of two states, were returned to Connecticut Wednesday night after waiving extradition in Dutchess County Court. The hot pursuit by police began in Sharon, Conn., where the trio allegedly staged a daring armed holdup at the Colonial Bank and Trust Company and fled with $75,000 in cash and travelers checks. Police lead two of the suspects from the Pawling Town Hall where they were taken after they were taken in custody at gunpoint Tuesday—Jorge Hernandez, 29, of Hialeah, Fla., (R) and behind him with head down, Samuel Galindo, 35, of Miami, in custody of Pawling Police Chief Charles Colman (L) and unidentified troopers. The third suspect, Foster Thorpe, 47, of Tampa, is not shown. The $75,000 was recovered. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Warn of More Commando Raids

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce today defied Communist threats of retaliation and served notice on Hanoi the United States would continue to fly reconnaissance missions over North Vietnam and do "everything in our power" to free captive U.S. pilots.

In a bitter verbal exchange with North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy, Bruce denied Hanoi claims that six U.S. aircraft had been shot down in the Nov. 21-22 raids during which special forces commandos made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue captive pilots from the Son Tay camp west of Hanoi.

Bruce said no U.S. plane was shot down in the action and that the commando unit, while failing to find any prisoners in the camp, "returned safely without incurring a single serious casualty."

Bruce spoke after Thuy warned that if the United States carried out further commando raids it would have to assume "full responsibility" for the consequences. He did not spell this out. Bruce rejected the statement as "polemics, propaganda and distortions of fact."

Bruce said the Communists

were fully aware that the United States was determined to fly reconnaissance missions over the North after halting all bombing raids on Nov. 1, 1968.

"Let me state once again today that we will continue to undertake these reconnaissance missions to help assure the safety of our forces in the Republic of (South) Vietnam, and that we will continue to take the necessary measures to protect our pilots and aircraft," Bruce said.

Bruce again accused the Communists of ill-treating U.S. prisoners which, he said, had prompted the Son Tay raid.

"It is only understandable to conclude that you indeed have something to hide (and) your claims of humanitarian treatment are open to the most serious question," he said in criticizing Hanoi's refusal to discuss the prisoners' condition, or exchange.

Thuy and the chief Viet Cong negotiator, Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, returned to the talks today after boycotting them a week to protest the recent U.S. raids. Both said the Communists would fight on to "total victory" if the United States did not accept their peace plans.

Thuy said the Dec. 1 warning by U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird that the United States might carry out new commando raids to save captive American pilots was a threat to carry out "pirate acts."

"We wish to state that the American pilots captured while committing crimes in North Vietnam come under the sole jurisdiction of the North Vietnamese government and that the latter has applied to them a humane policy and that it will take measures likely to assure their security," Thuy said.

"The U.S. government will have to assume full responsibility for the adventurous acts it plans to carry out in this field."

He did not spell out what steps Hanoi would take if U.S. commandos carried out new raids against the POW camps.

Thuy said the only way to insure the safety of American troops in South Vietnam is to remove them from South Vietnam.

Thuy's statement was in reply to a plea by U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce on Tuesday to exchange 36,000 Communist prisoners for 5,000 allied captives. The plea was backed with a new warning that the United States would take whatever steps were necessary to achieve the liberation of U.S. prisoners.

Both the Hanoi and Viet Cong officials called the POW issue a maneuver of the Nixon administration to prolong and extend the war in Indochina.

123 Feared Dead in Viet Plane Crashes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes and helicopters criss-crossed the mountains of central South Vietnam today, searching for the wreckage of two American C123 transport planes missing since the weekend with a total of 38 Americans and 85 Vietnamese aboard.

Heavy clouds and low ceilings continued to hamper the search.

One of the planes disappeared last Friday with six Americans and 73 Vietnamese aboard. The U.S. Command announced Sunday that it was missing.

Today the command announced a second C123 disappeared Sunday with five American crewmen, 27 American passengers and 12 Vietnamese passengers. A spokesman said it was on a scheduled passenger flight.

The command refused to say where it took off and where it was going because the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese might use that information to attack survivors and those searching for them.

Cloud cover over the rugged mountainous area has been heavy all week, and officials said no trace of either plane has been found. Nor has anything been picked up from the emergency radios airmen carry to give their position if they crash.

Officials said it was believed that reduced visibility from the overcast was a factor in both crashes. Neither plane was equipped with radar, although both had navigational aids for use in poor weather.

Also in the war—

The allied commands' weekly casualty summaries showed that the total of American battlefield deaths dropped to 32 last week, 33 less than the week before and about what they had been for much of the fall. A total of 430 South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed in action last week, the highest in three months, while the commands reported 1,300 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

Another 178 U.S. troops and 934 South Vietnamese were reported wounded in action last week. The U.S. Command reported another 32 Americans died last week from such non-hostile causes as accidents and illness.

The U.S. Command said enemy shelling attacks had dropped off more than 50 per cent in Vietnam during the past 24 hours, with a dozen rocket and mortar attacks reported between 8 a.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday, compared with 28 in the previous 24 hours. All the Wednesday-Thursday attacks were against South Vietnamese bases and troops.

A delayed field report said that 18 South Vietnamese militiamen were killed and 15 wounded in a North Vietnamese-Viet Cong ground attack on a district military headquarters early Wednesday on the central coast 240 miles northeast of Saigon. Six enemy were also reported killed.

In Cambodia, the government reported two attacks inside the outer defense ring of Phnom Penh.

One hit government troops in a high school 10 miles south of the Cambodian capital, but a spokesman could give no casualty figures or damage information. The other attack was at Tuk Khleang, 14 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, but again there was no other information.

Authorities Comb Dense Woods For Thruway Murder Suspect

By WALTER S. CLARK

MAHWAH, N. J.

Bloodhounds and a helicopter were used for a third day as a police posse searched for a 30-year-old man through the rugged Ramapo Mountains. The suspect is sought in connection with the murder of a man off the State Thruway near New Paltz, N. Y.

Burly, bearded John Parker of 94 Ramapo Valley Road, this community, is believed to be hiding in a cave in the mountains and he reportedly is armed with two .45 caliber pistols and 300 rounds of ammunition.

Parker is wanted by New York State Police for the murder of Gordon Scharrenberg, 20, of Park Ridge, whose bullet-riddled body was found on Oct. 27. Parker and Helen Acker, 22, of this town, both face charges of murder in Ulster County, New York, in connection with Scharrenberg's slaying.

Mrs. Acker was arrested Tuesday by police here as a material witness in the Nov. 14 murder of Michael McGraw, 26, West Nyack, N. Y. Parker also is sought for questioning in connection with that slaying which occurred in a service station on Route 17 where the victim was working.

James J. Mott, 22, of Mahwah, was charged Tuesday with two counts of murder in the slaying of McGraw. He is held in the Bergen County jail awaiting court action. Mrs. Acker also is in jail here awaiting extradition to New York to face the murder charge in the Scharrenberg death.

Police Captain Charles Haight of the local police, told The Freeman this morning that 40 New York State Troopers and local police with men from the Bergen County prosecutor's office, were combing the Ramapo Mountains again today seeking to flush out Parker who reportedly hitched a ride to the Stag Hill area where the manhunt was centered today.

Police said Stag Hill is too thickly wooded for vehicles and bloodhounds from New York and a helicopter were aiding in the search.

Authorities suspect that Parker, Mrs. Acker and Mott took part in the McGraw murder.

Scharrenberg, police said, was forcibly taken from a service station at Sloatsburg, near the New Jersey border the night he was shot to death near New Paltz. Three bullets had been fired into his back, authorities said.

Meanwhile, Kingston State Police BCI Officers continued investigation in that area. They reported yesterday that warrants had been issued by a town justice charging Parker and Acker with Scharrenberg's murder.

Details Are Spelled Out In the UCCC Agreement

By JON POWERS

STONE RIDGE

The first details in the tentative contract agreement reached between Ulster County Community College teachers and the Ulster County Legislature were announced today by representatives of the Faculty Association.

While all economic matters in the wage dispute have reportedly been settled, the bargaining teams for the two parties must still resolve the final wording of the contract. A meeting for this purpose has tentatively been scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 7.

Louis G. Cesaratto, a member of the UCCC Faculty Association said today that the teachers had been granted a 15 per cent pay hike for the 1970-71 academic year and a 10 per cent pay raise for the 1971-72 academic year. The 25 per cent, two-year pay boost compares to an earlier 28 per cent raise request by the faculty and an offer of 21 per cent by the County Legislature.

The faculty members will receive 100 per cent of their health insurance payments for both years and 50 per cent for dependents. Life insurance for the two years will equal one times the faculty member's salary.

A reduction of one hour per year in the teaching load was agreed upon by the two parties.

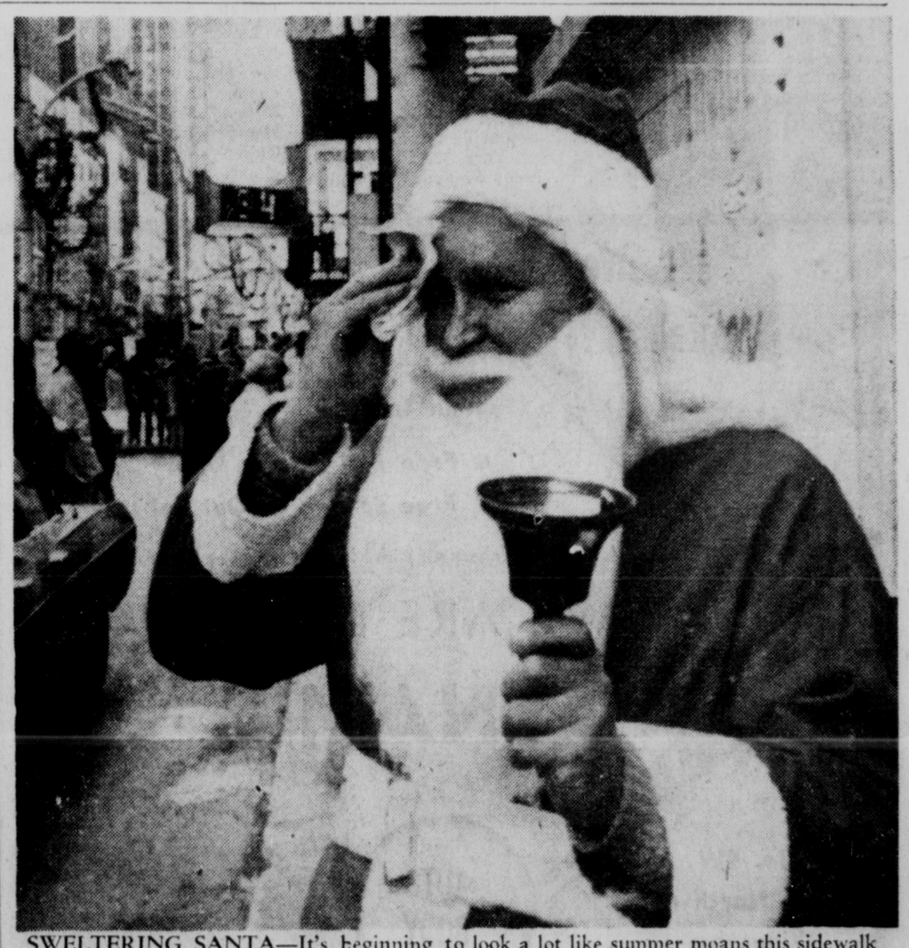

Teachers were granted an additional two days of sick leave per year. It was further agreed that each faculty member would contribute two days of sick leave per year to a "sick leave bank" and that the County Legislature would contribute one day to the "bank" for every faculty member teaching at the college. The sick leave bank will be used by teachers who exceed their number of allotted sick leave days. The "sick leave bank" it was noted, shall not exceed a total of 500 days.

Other details released included a $500 annual compensation for Division Chairmen this year and $750 next year and a one hour per year reduction in the minimum load for division chairmen for both years. Department chairmen were granted a one hour per year reduction in their minimum load for 1970-71 and a reduction of an additional hour for 1971-72. A range of $230 to $275 per semester hour for this year and $260 to $305 per semester hour for next year for overload teaching rates also was announced.

All economic terms are retroactive to Sept. 1, 1970.

SWELTERING SANTA—It's beginning to look a lot like summer moans this sidewalk Santa Claus in Chicago as he wipes his brow in a record 64 degree heat Wednesday. Kingston's official thermometer soared to a record 60 degree mark yesterday setting a new high for Dec. 2. The previous high reading for the date locally was 53 degrees in 1943. Record low for the second day of December was set in 193 when the mercury dipped to nine degrees. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Anti-Fluoride Move to Mayor

KINGSTON — A petition bearing more than 1,000 signatures of persons opposed to fluoridation was delivered to Mayor Francis R. Koenig's office Wednesday afternoon.

The mayor had no comment on it this morning stating only that he would give it his immediate attenion. The petition was circulated by a group called Citizens Committee Opposing Fluoridation. A cover letter is signed by Mary Cashara, president of that organization.

That letter, termed an open letter "to the mayor and members of the Common Council of the city of Kingston," lists some of the background of the floridation controversy and states in conclusion. "We are hereby demanding that as our elected officials you reject the proposals by the proponents to pollute our safe drinking water with fluorides of any sort. Think of the aged, the ill, the children who are afflicted with crippling diseases many of whom are being treated right at the new facility built just for that purpose. Do you want to see their number enlarged? I'm sure you do not. Let all the people in Kingston keep their faith in you and your wise and good judgments. Let fluoridation die its infamous death and put an end to the fears being spread by the proponents. What more can we do, who have attempted to alert the people as to the dangers of fluoridation and its unscientific promotion?" it concludes.

"We urge you Mayor Koenig and members of the Common Council to emphatically reject any move to pollute our drinking water with any chemical or drug not intended for its purity or safety."

The proposal to fluoridate the city's water as a dental health measure is being studied by the Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee. It was submitted by Dr. William C. Taylor, county health commissioner, at the August meeting of the Council.

State to Get Request From Rosendale Town

By JON POWERS

ROSENDALE — The Rosendale Town Board will submit an application to the New York State Transportation Department for installation of a caution signal school sign device at the intersection of Route 32 and Grist Mill Road in Tillson, it was announced at Wednesday's board meeting.

Town Board officials had received a letter from the Transportation Department asking that an application for the device be submitted to expedite the action.

The device will consist of a caution sign with two flashing yellow lights on each side. It will be operated by the school crossing guard at the intersection while school is in session.

The Town has tried to receive permission to install the warning light for several years, claiming that a potentially hazardous situation exists during school hours at the intersection.

At Wednesday's meeting, a petition signed by 59 Tillson residents urging installation of the device was read and recorded.

It was noted that the state will not share any of the expenses for erection of the caution sign. Cost burden will have to be shouldered by the Town and, possibly, the Kingston Consolidated School District.

In other matters discussed, it was noted that dredging operations at the landfill site are continuing. The dredging, according to Town Supervisor Gerard DeFelicis, "will add years of life to the landfill site and will facilitate better fire control."

Beginning Jan. 5, 1971, Town of Rosendale Justices will hold court every Tuesday from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. Currently, Justices hold court at various hours on Monday and Tuesday of each week. Among the reasons for the change, it was explained, are to establish an equal work load between the two justices and to make court sessions more convenient for both justices and town residents.

The regular "close-out meeting" of the Town Board will be held Dec. 30, at which time the books will be audited.

Constable Donald DePew requested that he not be reappointed to his constable post Jan. 1, 1971, because of an increased work load in his personal business.

A meeting will be scheduled later in the month, it was noted, to consider an application to make town roads accessible to snowmobiles.

Katsbaan School Goes for $10,000

KATSBAAN — The little old red schoolhouse in Katsbaan, one of the few still in existence, was sold at public auction Wednesday afternoon for $10,000.

The sale of the one-room school on Old Kings Highway was conducted by Attorney Morris Rosenblum for Saugerties Central School District. The district acted for and in behalf of former Common School District No. 6.

The sale price included the wooden structure, lot and contents which consisted of desks, chairs and the old school bell. There were several bidders.

Norman Whitaker of Schenectady, who has local ties, was the successful bidder. He could not be reached for comment. However, he has told people of the area that he would like to preserve it and did not want it torn down or its characteristics changed.

The schoolhouse was closed about seven years ago and the pupils moved to some of the new school buildings in the area, according to Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of Saugerties Schools.

Olive Party For Seniors Set Dec. 11

WEST SHOKAN — The Senior Citizens Club of the Town of Olive will hold its annual Christmas party at the Pheasant Inn, Shokan, on Friday, Dec. 11 at 1 p.m. Each member will bring a gift for exchange.

Fire Voting Mostly Routine

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON — Fire District elections in most areas of the county were routine with incumbents being reelected and in some instances treasurer's named.

However, in the Centerville District of the Town of Saugerties, a spirited three-way contest brought a total of 297 residents to the polls at Centerville Fire Hall.

Fire Chief Thomas Brennan won with 180 votes and William Terwilliger was second with 103 ballots case. The incumbent Francis Wolven only polled 14 votes. Brennan was elected to a five-year term. A new fire chief for the district will be elected 8 p.m. tonight at a special meeting of Centerville and Cedar Grove Fire Companies at Centerville Fire Hall.

Other commissioners serving on the board are Percy Mower, Foster Finger, Robert Thein and John C. Paige.

In Glasco Fire District Salvatore A. Misasi ran unoppsoed for the five-year commissioner post and polled 81 votes. He succeeds Rudolph Mauro Sr., whose term expired. Other Glasco commissioners on the board include Roman O. Wolff, Michael Amato, Michael Caruso and Salvatore Davi.

Phoenicia Fire District elected Frank Kreitner to the five-year commissioner term. Only 10 votes were cast in the uncontested election. Kreitner succeess Reese Smith Jr., whose term expired. George Kirk was reelected treasurer for another three-year term. He also received 10 votes.

Hurley Fire District No. 1 elected Alex Benishake with 15 blalots cast for the five-year commissioner's post. He succeeds Terow Sleight, whose term expired. Seight, however was elected to fill a one-year vacancy due to the resignation of Paul McGuire. Sleight received 14 votes. Rose Burgher with 13 votes was elected treasurer for three years. Other commissioners are Richard Ruth, chairman; George Kennedy and Walter E. Porz.

Tillson Fire District reelected Richard C. Weir to the commissioner's post but no one was nominated for the two-year treasurer's position. The commissioners must appoint a district treasurer at its meeting next month. Other commissioners include Ernest Hopper, Richard Myers, Vincent Carroll and John Banach.

Kripplebush-Lyonsville Fire District elected Robert Kelder to the five-year commissioners post and Robert Hough to the three-year treasurer's position.

Fact Finder Named In Olive Dispute

TOWN OF OLIVE — A breakdown in negotiations between the Town of Olive Highway Department employes and the Town Board has led to the appointment of a factfinder by the Public Employment Relations Board, according to Franklin Smith, president of Tri-County New York State Public Employees Local 750 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

A factfinding session has been scheduled for Friday. The five month dispute reached the "impasse stage" several weeks ago, said Smith, when a PERB appointed mediator was unable to break the deadlock between the two parties.

According to Smith, the Town Board, in preliminary negotiating sessions, offered no wage increase to the 13 highway department workers and then revised that stand and offered a 15 cent per hour increase for laborers and a five cent per hour increase to all other workers.

The negotiating committee for the employes, who are attempting to form into a union, rejected the town's offer stating that they "have not been earning a decent wage to begin with." The employes have threatened to strike if an agreement is not reached.

Approval Expected Of County Budget

KINGSTON — Ulster County's proposed $21.6 million budget for 1971 is expected to be approved at tonight's annual meeting of the Ulster County Legislature to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the fifth floor legislative chambers of the County Office Building.

A number of routine resolutions have been filed to date and any other proposed legislation may be filed right up until the time of the meeting due to the fact there is no deadline for resolutions at the annual meeting.

The 1971 budget was explored in depth at a public hearing held last week which was attended by fewer than 50 persons.

Reminder From Bell On Snowmobiles

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) today reminded snowmobile owners that January 1, 1971 is fast approaching and some vehicles are not yet registered as required by law according to the Office of Parks and Recreation.

"There apparently has been some confusion as to just how the new law requiring registration of all snowmobiles before January 1, 1971 works," Assemblyman Bell said, and added, "The Division of Marine and Recreational Vehicles of the Office of Parks and Recreation has been assigned responsibility to administer the new program." Assemblyman Bell stated and said, "If you have questions about your snowmobile write to: Snowmobiles, Building 2, State Campus, Albany, New York 12226; and also ask for a copy of the new snowmobile rules and regulations pamphlet. If you have an immediate problem phone the Division of Marine and Recreational Vehicles, at Albany, area code 518-457-5510, this is the snowmobile information number."

Assemblyman Bell said: "Snowmobiling is a great family sport and is experiencing tremendous growth as a winter recreational activity, but improper use of snowmobiles can result in hazards to operators, riders and others, and can create problems involving einvironmental management and conservation. The new law is designed to promote safe and proper use of snowmobiles with minimum detrimental effects upon the environment," Assemblyman Bell concluded. ..

Salvation Army Appeal Aided by Outdoor Signs

KINGSTON — The first billboard of the 1970 holiday season appealing for support of the Salvation Army's Christmas program has been posted just off Broadway on Downs Street, according to Captain James Shotzberger of the local Salvation Army Corps.

A total of five billboards have been donated to the Salvation Army in this area as a public service by Modjeska Sign Studio.

This is the 12th Christmas season that member firms of the Outdoor Advertising Association of America throughout the nation have given billboard space to The Salvation Army's holiday fund raising campaign. These boards appeal for support of the Army's program, which with money contributed by the public all over the United States provides holiday dinners and other assistance to individuals and distributes toys to youngsters who might otherwise be "forgotten."

The poster carries a photo of a Salvation Army Christmas Kettle, the familiar Red Shield of the Army, and the simple message: "Christmas. It's Just a Drop in the Bucket. Share with Others."

Drug Lecture Slated Friday At Highland

HIGHLAND — Public schools in the Highland School District will be dismissed early Friday, Dec. 4, to allow teachers and administrators to attend a lecture by Dr. Vincent Beltrani on the subject "The Drug Problem—How Bad Is It, and What Can We Do?" Dr. Beltrani will discuss ways in which parents and teachers can discourage children from beginning the use of drugs.

Dr. Beltrani is well known throughout the Mid-Hudson area as the originator and co-ordinator of YELL (Youth Emergency Line Limited), a telephone service for teen-agers with problems. Dr. Beltrani has extensive experience in treating and counseling members of the "drug culture."

The program, which is being sponsored by the Highland P-TA, will be open to all parents and other interested adults. The lecture will begin at about 1:30 p.m. at Highland Junior-Senior High School.

A Tale of Torture and Murder

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A group of Vietnam war veterans have told an unofficial inquiry that American soldiers torture and murder Viet Cong prisoners to gain intelligence information.

They said prisoners were thrown from helicopters, tortured with electrical shocks to genitals and breasts, six-inch pegs were driven into their ears and women were threatened with their children"s deaths.

The veterans commented at the National Veterans Inquiry into U.S. War Crimes Policy, sponsored by antiwar groups.

Dr. Gordon Livingston, a former Army surgeon in Vietnam and now a resident in psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University, said American soldiers go through a "whole process of dehumanization" that starts with referring to Vietnamese as "gooks" and "slants."

"The acceptance of the inferiority of the Vietnamese is so broad, so pervasive that there is practically nobody not involved," he said. "In that context, it is not surprising that individual soldiers will kill innocent Vietnamese."

Livingston said that when a helicopter pilot temporarily was grounded for flying so low he killed two Vietnamese women on bicycles, he said, "It's ridiculous. Why should I be grounded for killing a couple of gooks?"

Kenneth B. Osborne of Washington, a former intelligence specialist ,said he was along on two helicopter flights when American officers ordered Viet Cong prisoners thrown out to force other prisoners to talk.

Osborne also said American soldiers put six-inch pegs in prisoners ears and kept tapping them inward in an effort to make them talk.

Former Sgts. Edward Murphy of Philadelphia and Stephen S. Noetzel of the New York area said American servicemen hooked the wires of battery-operated field telephones to the genitals of men and the breasts of women and gave them electrical shocks to prod them into talking.

Cardinal Cooke, State Bishops— Re-State Abortion Opposition

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A letter signed by Terence Cardinal Cooke and endorsed by the bishops of New York State restates in strong terms the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to the lieralized abortion law.

"The abortionists lost no time in plying their death-dealing trade," the letter, to be read at Mass in Catholic churches next Sunday, said. "Each day they grow wealthier from the killing of unborn children — some of whom have been heard to cry as they were dropped into surgical trash cans."

"They even advertise their monstrous commerce beyond the confines of the state, thus making New York the abortion capitol of America," it said.

Abortion reform passed the by Governor Rockefeller this year. The new law went into effect in July.

A statement prepared by the New York State Catholic Committee, with headquarters in Albany, cited statistics indicating about 300,000 abortions would be performed the first year. The statement added that two out of three abortions are performed on non-residents.

The state law permits an abortion anytime up to six months.

The bishops' letter urged all listeners to "oppose and reject abortion in every way possible." They cited the sanction of "immediate excommunication for any Catholic who deliberately procures an abortion or helps someone else to do so."

A Tate Figure-- Mistrial Possible

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Prospects for a mistrial for one of the female defendants in the five and a half month Tate murder trial grew stronger today as police sought defense lawyer Ronald Hughes.

The 250-pound, red-whiskered novice attorney has been missing since last weekend and the state prosecutor expressed concern for his safety.

Hughes, 35, trying his first jury case as attorney for Leslie van Houten, was the object of a helicopter search in rugged mountain country north of Los Angeles, where he often camped out with only a sleeping bag.

A torrential rainstorm hit the area Sunday but Hughes was not among the evacuees from the area. Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ordered the Los Angeles sheriff's department to make every effort to find the attorney, but he has not been located.

The deputy district attorney and the three other defense lawyers went ahead with consultations about the judge's instructions to the jury but the trial could not formally proceed without Hughes or someone representing Miss Van Houten.

Chief defense lawyer Paul Fitzgerald indicated to newsmen that he flet Hughes' continued absence could lead to a mistrial although Miss Van Houten has protested vehemently she does not want to go through it all again.

Vietnamization Ups the U.S. Jobless

NEW YORK (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says the Nixon administration's Vietnamization program has cost the nation 1.5 million jobs and will force another 750,000 out of work within the next six months.

Laird said a Cabinet level committee has been studying the problem where "defense industries have been a major part of the economy." The secretary said as the nation adjusted its economy from war to peacetime programs, he believed "we still have to keep a sufficient military-industrial-labor base" in case of future defense needs.

Laird made his remarks on the "David Frost Show" (Westinghouse) which was taped last week for viewing today.

Laird said the Vietnamization program was proceeding successfully in three phases with unemployment being one result. He said while peace was desirable, "It does affect many families ..." Laird has said he expects to ask Congress for a larger Defense Department for the next fiscal year, but he hasn't said how much he would ask.

The Defense Secretary said one of his major concerns wa the Soviet Union's "tremendous buildup" in strategic weapons which has been under way since 1965 which has brought them up to parity with the United States in most areas and ahead in some offensive weapons.

He predicted if the current Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Helsinki are not successful, 'We might have to go into a crash program on the underwater new submarine system (UNS) to replace our Polaris missile system. We may have to make some tough decisions as far as hardening of some of our land-based missile sites. We may have to go forward with the production of a new bomber."

Laird said he was concerned with the momentum of the Russian effort, saying, "We were in a position back in 1965 where the Soviet Union was not in a role of parity as far as the United States in strategic weapons, but now it is reaching that ... I think that it has (reached parity)," Laird said. "It's in a position where, as far as strategic offensive weapons are concerned, it has gone ahead of us some."

For these reasons, "I believe that we have to keep a sufficient military-industrial-labor base as far as the Department of Defense is concerned so that in the event that they're needed at some future time, we can call on them. So as we make these changes in our economy, it is very important that we do recognize the importance of keeping up this base in America.

"This is the one thing that made it possible for us to come through World War II." At the same time, however, Laird said a major conflict with Red China before the end of this century was "remote."

Coach House, Uptown Men Join

KINGSTON — The Coach House Players plan to install Christmas decorations at the Flatbush Avenue Infirmary to provide the holiday spirit for the disabled and elderly residents, and are currently collecting decorations from business establishments in the Uptown area.

Mrs. Edward J. Finn of 16 Hillsworth Avenue said the Coach House project is operating with the cooperation of Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, which has advised its members in a letter this week.

She said that the Coach House Players would appreciate any spare Christmas decorations, ornaments or greens that any of the merchants may have. Business people who have spare decorations they would like to give toward the project may call at her home and arrangements will be made to pick up the materials.

The decorations must be available by Wednesday. The Coach House Players have set Friday, Dec. 18 for the decorating project at the infirmary.

They'll Figure Your Tax

The Internal Revenue Service found errors in calculation in 3.6 million of the 78 million returns filed in 1969, and has decided to do something about it. IRS has offered to figure the 1970 income tax and retirement income credit for 30 million Americans, persons with incomes up to $20,000 who take the standard 10 per cent deduction and whose income is from salaries and wages, dividends, interest and pensions.

Thus IRS hopes to cut down errors made by working people and retirees. The others would have to struggle along with their own returns, or get professional advice on them. In the past, the IRS has figured the income tax for taxpayers who earn $5,000 a year and who ask for help. By quadrupling the income on which it will give aid, the IRS reduces the possibility of errors that much more.

It is obvious that taxpayers wanting this new service should seek it as soon after they have their income figures as possible. If a large share of the 30 million Americans now eligible for this service take advantage of the offer, the IRS agents would be swamped. We were not told that agents have been added to take care of this new demand.

We would not have realized that two out of five taxpayers would require help, nor that as many as 3.6 million made errors that have persuaded the IRS to adopt new rules for their benefit. It is a handsome offer and one that all who are eligible should lose no time seeking after the new year begins. It will be good for so many not to have to worry about the headache that accompanies filling out the forms. If the test is successful, we hope it will be extended to others who can also use the help.

FBI Hoover's Bosses

J. Edgar Hoover has served as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for 45 years, under eight presidents and 15 attorneys general. His assault on Ramsey Clark as "the worst attorney general under whom I served" was aroused by Clark's charge in his book, "Crime in America," that Hoover's "self-centered concern for his own reputation" led the FBI into glory-seeking rather than effective crime control.

Until Bobby Kennedy came along, Hoover said he had never had trouble with Attorneys General. Then he added, "If ever there was a worse Attorney General, it was Ramsey Clark. You never knew which way he was going to flop on an issue. He was like a jellyfish, a softie. At least Kennedy stuck by his guns, even when he was wrong."

Hoover said he would accept the judgment of Tom C. Clark, Ramsey's father, on his stewardship of the FBI. Tom C. Clark was Attorney General under Harry S. Truman and later a justice of the Supreme Court. He resigned his judicial seat to eliminate any possibility of conflict of interest when his son was named Attorney General by President Johnson.

At 75 with 45 years as director, Hoover can retire at full pay. It is costing him money to stay in his office, but no President has wanted to replace him. He is both a legend and the "indispensable" man in government. He and his organization serve this country's people with devotion and courage.

David Lawrence Says
No TV Time Given to Reply To Fulbright's Accusations

WASHINGTON — Many critics who have wondered why Vice President Spiro T. Agnew achieved sudden popularity when he questioned several weeks ago whether broadcast media were treating the administration fairly got another example last Sunday of why millions of listeners and watchers to TV react as they do when they hear only one side of a controversial question.

The program in question was "Face the Nation" on the CBS network. The chief speaker was Senator Fulbright, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, as he was interrogated by three newsmen who expressed no opinions of their own.

Mr. Fulbright made a serious accusation against his government. He said it is dominated by the military side. He declared that the State Department has a secondary role in foreign affairs. He argued that America is, in effect, being ruled by a "military complex."

Nobody else was given time to answer these charges, and the same audience heard no rebuttal from the other side. Senator Fulbright remarked that the money appropriated by Congress gives the military a tremendous influence in governmental decisions and that the Secretary of State appears today to occupy a secondary role in foreign relations.

The Constitution, of course, bestows on Congress the power "to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces" and also declares that the President shall be "Commander-in-Chief" of the armed services. The Department of Defense has been created by Congress and the Secretary of Defense, appointed by the President, frequently makes reports to Congress on the conduct of the armed services. But whether some secret military operation could better be described to a congressional committee by the Secretary of State — who is not too intimately acquainted with such matters — or by the Secretary of Defense, who deals with them daily, is something that the White House has the right to determine. Senator Fulbright classes it all as "foreign relations" and says Secretary of State Rogers is playing a subsidiary role.

The crux of the problem, too often disregarded by members of Congress, is that military operations cannot be conducted by advance publicity. Few persons in the government, for instance, were informed ahead of time about the commando raid designed to rescue prisoners of war because it was thought this was a better way to prevent a leakage of military plans. Yet the administration is being maligned for some inconsistencies in the reports as they came out in the press about the way the raid was carried out. There seems to be a disregard of the fact that information must be kept from the enemy and that it will not hurt any cause if the whole story doesn't come out until several days after the operation is completed.

The United States is engaged just now in a war in Vietnam, and at least 350,000 servicemen in the Army, Navy and Air Force are involved. There is no obligation resting on the President as Commander-In-Chief to divulge military plans ahead of time. Nor is there any requirement that he make public his strategy in endeavoring to persuade the North Vietnamese to make peace at Paris.

When Senator Fulbright declares that the raids are a sign of the "escalation" of the war and a barrier to peace negotiations, this can only be read as a disagreement between the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the President. Hanoi is given hope that, if it continues to hold out and make no concessions, the Senators who want to end the war by making peace at any price will be able to mobilize the preponderant opinion in this country behind them.

President Nixon cannot make public beforehand all the things he has to consider in withdrawing American troops from Vietnam. If, for instance, the number goes down to 40,000 and the North Vietnamese start massive attacks on them, is America to do nothing about it except to keep on moving men out of South Vietnam? The President doubtless has been advised by his military leaders to let it be known that the United States will not tolerate attacks on its troops and that, whenever there is any sign of such a danger, it may resume bombing as a warning.

As for a justification of Mr. Agnew's first comments, he may have noticed that on last Sunday not only was there no time given to a reply to chairman Fulbright's accusations on the "Face the Nation" program but two and a a half hours later Senator Fulbright appeared again on the same network and had another opportunity to express his views. Things of this kind inspired Mr. Agnew to start his original drive for "equal time" and fair play on TV.

Jack Anderson Says
Red China Launching New 'Asia for Asians' Campaign

WASHINGTON — Quiet feelers have gone out from Peking to Asian leaders reviving the Asia-for-Asians doctrine preached by the Japanese during World War II.

The word may be dropped delicately by a Chinese merchant in Bangkok or not so delicately by a radical leader in Tokyo. A diplomat with a pipeline to Peking may raise the subject in Rangoon or Djakarta or Manila. But the message is always the same.

"We are all Orientals," the messenger will say. "We should join together."

The most ominous overtures have been made to certain Japanese leaders. A harnessing of Japanese industrial power with Chinese manpower, it is suggested, would form a super power equal to the United States or Soviet Union.

This column has spoken to various Asian leaders about Peking's new Asia-for-Asians line. One who was willing to be quoted, President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines, confirmed that he had received the "We are all Orientals" pitch. There was no question, she said, that the message came indirectly from Peking.

The specter of a Japanese-Chinese alliance, he added, has caused deep concern among Asian leaders.

"If the Chinese and Japanese ever get together," he said, "and combine the industrial capability of Japan with the manpower of China, then look out."

Nixon's Women Trouble

President Nixon's crack in Chicago that "I want a woman to be a woman" is still plaguing him. These were fighting words, apparently to millions of women who got the impression he believes a woman's place is in the home.

Result: The President's remark, made to some Junior League women before the election, turned many indignant ladies against the Republicans on November 3. No less an authority than pollster George Gallup concluded from his post-election analysis that the women's vote gave the Democrats their margin of victory in many states.

Meanwhile, women's organizations have spread the word that the Nixon administration is giving only lip service to women's rights. Some leaders have suggested privately that crewcut H. R. Haldeman, the guardian of the President's door, is anti-women.

He is supposed to be so prejudiced against women, according to the whispers, that he uses a male secretary. As it happens, Haldeman has two female secretaries in his office. But the chief secretarial duties, it's true, are handled by Lawrence Higby who has the title of administrative assistant.

Insiders insist, however, that Haldeman is cold to men and women alike. He attends to the President's business with such cold efficiency, they say, that some women have mistaken this for hostility.

Hickel's Heckler

The man who got Interior Secretary Walter Hickel fired from the cabinet was White House aide John Ehrlichman.

It was Ehrlichamn, not President Nixon, who dealt with Hickel. The frustrated cabinet officer almost never could get through to the President, sometimes couldn't even get through to Ehrlichman.

This led to the famous leak of Hickel's letter to the President and a bristling exchange between the two staffs. Growled John Whitaker, and Ehrlichman aide: "If you find the SOB responsible for leaking that letter, I want you to fire him."

Snapped back Pat Ryan, a Hickel aide: "If you find the SOB responsible for not letting Hickel see the President, I want you to fire him."

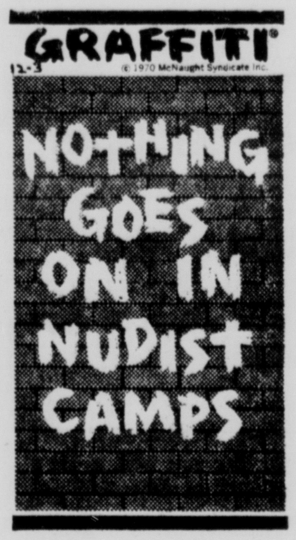

In the end, Ehrlichman triumphantly sat in on Hickel's firing and saw to it that Ryan got the ax, too. Result: The word has spread through the Nixon administration that Ehrlichman is a dangerous man to cross.

Washington Whispers

Laird's Lobby — The gun lobby has quietly opened a chapter right in Defense Secretary Mel Laird's office. The "Office of the Secretary of Defense Rod and Gun Club," made up of outdoor enthusiasts on Laird's staff, has affiliated with the National Rifle Association. This has been the headquarters for the lobbying against gun controls. Not suprisingly, the NRA offered members of this exclusive Rod and Gun Club reduced-rate memberships.

Political Potpourri — Larry O'Brien is talking privately about giving up the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee for greater financial rewards .... The Justice Department is preparing to go ahead with an investigation into alleged voting irregularities in Indiana. This could upset Sen. Vance Hartke's narrow re-election victory. Defeated Sen. Joe Tydings, D-Md., will hitch a ride on Sen. Ed Muskie's presidential bandwagon....The highway lobby is distressed over the defeat of Rep. Bill Cramer, R-Fla., who lost his bid for the Senate. This column has tracked down contributions to Cramer from road builders as far away as New York, North Carolina and Mississippi.

Martha's Mouth — Several readers, curious over Martha Mitchell's nocturnal telephone calls berating politicians and newsmen, have asked whether she partakes too freely of the sauce. We know of no one in Washington who has ever seen her drink excessively. The recipients of her calls say her tongue is sharp but not thick. Her husband, Attorney General John Mitchell, has told friends that she is moody and makes the calls when she "gets in one of her moods." But her friends explain — with more delight than distress — that Martha merely has a big mouth.

Rocky Now Admits New York Has Very Serious Fiscal Problem

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — When it comes to admitting that the New York State government is in poor financial health, what a difference an election makes.

In the final stages of his campaign struggle with Democrat Arthur Goldberg, Gov. Rockefeller spent much of his time rebuffing charges that the state was headed into serious budget difficulties.

"Politically inspired," Rockefeller's budget director said of the Goldberg claim. Rockefeller himself insisted right up to the Sunday before election that it was simply "too early to tell" what the 1971 financial picture would be.

Only a week after the election, however, the Republican governor allowed solemnly that "we've got a very serious fiscal problem" to resolve. And he's been hammering away on that theme ever since.

His solution is for the Nixon administration to cough up an additional $1 billion in federal aid for New York State. The implied alternative is a massive increase in state taxes — although Rockefeller isn't ready to say so directly.

The curious taxpayer may be wondering why Rockefeller and his fiscal advisers were unable to discern on Nov. 1 a fiscal "crisis" that became sadly evident by mid-month.

Some surely will conclude that candidate Rockefeller was not willing to admit publicly what Governor Rockefeller knew all along. Makes it kind of sticky when he's trying to win votes.

It's interesting, nevertheless, to trace the evolution from "too early to tell" to facing "an impossible situation" — the term Rockefeller used only two days ago. Here's how it happened:

Oct. 8 — Goldberg observed that, because of the national economic slump, state tax collections were lagging badly. He predicted the state would face a revenue gap of at least $600 million and that Rockefeller if elected, would seek a huge tax increase.

Oct. 8 — Rockefeller struck back immediately, through Budget Director T. Norman Hurd, who said of the Goldberg charge, "It is a complete distortion of the facts and has no basis in fact. Clearly, it is far too early to be specific."

Rockefeller took that line in turning aside subsequent inquiries from newsmen and in answering voters' questions. Some examples:

Oct. 22 — He told editors of the New York Times, "I'm hopeful that the revenues will pick up. But, until we know, it's impossible to speculate about the fiscal situation in the state next year."

Nov. 1 — Rockefeller said during a televised debate with Goldberg, "It's too early to tell the state of the budget."

The election followed on Nov. 3. Then, this sequence:

Nov. 10 — Rockefeller told newsmen at the State Capitol, "I think we've got a very serious fiscal problem at all levels of government." Asked whether he might have to raise taxes if more federal aid was not granted, he replied, "Well, if you add up the negatives, the answer would be yes."

Nov. 23 — Asking New York congressmen to join in his bid for an extra $1 billion in federal aid, he said, "the additional money I have proposed is the minimum amount required to help close the gap between clearly predictable increased costs of state and local government services and anticipated taxes."

On Dec. 1, addressing a national conference of legislative leaders in Puerto Rico, Rockefeller said of his budget problem, "the total requirements of existing state-aid programs and urgent requests for increased state expenditures will come to between $1 billion and $2.5 billion. This is an impossible situation."

So, in exactly one month, Rockefeller progressed from an admission impossible to a $2.5-billion mission impossible. What a month.

'70 Census, Near Perfection

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The 1970 census probably was the best count ever made in this nation. A sifting of complaints suggests the Census Bureau's errors added to a total "miss" of just five ten-thousandths of one per cent.

Before the counting began, there were dire predictions of nonco-operation by blacks and other allegedly "turned off" minorities. Some counting in urban ghetto neighborhoods was very tough, but the forecast organized hostility never materialized.

The 1960 census often had been assailed for supposed serious "undercounting" in black and other poor areas. In advance, critics said the 1970 count would be similarly flawed. All the responsible evidence we have indicates this did not happen.

Dr. George Brown, Census Bureau chief, and his staff received slightly less than 1,600 verbal or written complaints of undercounting from mayors and other local officials as results began to be announced. All but eight of these have been resolved.

Since some 185,000 census workers were employed in counting nearly 205 million Americans in some 60,000 city, township, county or other local units, this performance has to be put down as amazing.

To be sure, some of the complainers generated a lot of noise and heat. It was understandable. For hundreds of social and other urban or area purposes, moneys are allocated by states and especially by the federal government on the basis of the local head count.

The results Brown will give the President are numbers which translate into dollars, numbers the localities are going to have to live with for the next decade. Through the complaints ran this blunt line: "It's a question of money, not people. We need the money."

Anger at alleged undercounts produced interesting responses. Officials of East Chicago, Ind., went into U.S. district court and tried to enjoin the Census Bureau from announcing either preliminary or final counts for the city — on basic grounds of an undercount.

Federal Judge George Beamer on Oct. 21 dismissed the East Chicago case, in which city lawyers argued a person has a "constitutional right" to be counted.

Beamer said the U.S. Constitution does not require that every citizen be counted but simply demands what he termed an "actual enumeration." In his opinion he said:

"And that command or order is violated only when the methods used are so grossly deficient that the census cannot reasonably be characterized as an 'actual enumeration.'"

Roughly 620 cities or other localities undertook, usually with the aid of newspapers, what might be called "come forward and be counted" campaigns, urging anyone who thought he or his house was missed to say so. In these undertakings, nearly 70,000 housing units were reported as missed, but the census authorities found all but 8,300 in their records.

Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro raised a roar which caught headlines. With the National League of Cities sponsoring a recount in two black ghetto census tracts and Johns Hopkins University professors providing technical guidance, a partial recheck was made.

D'Alessandro thereafter proclaimed a bureau error of six to 10 per cent in the tracts reviewed. California Rep. Bob Wilson of the House Post Office and Civil Service committee, handling census matters, told Baltimore it would get a citywide recount if the two-tract check showed more than three per cent error.

But the city's recount reflected population on Oct. 15, not April 1 when the census was taken. Altered for April 1, city figures actually fell more than 1,500 below the bureau's final count.

Most complaints tailed off in minor adjustment or explanation. The Census Bureau has not had to make a single recount of its own.

Russians Hedging On Berlin Problem

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — Despite the treaty renouncing the use of force that Russia and West Germany signed in August, Moscow continues to play a diplomatic guessing game with Bonn's Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Do the Kremlin leaders really intend to solve the thorny West Berlin problem?

Brandt made it clear that a satisfactory agreement on Berlin was the prerequisite for ratification of the treaty by Bonn's Bundestag. Such an agreement, in his view, should include:

Free access to West Berlin, an enclave 110 miles within Russian-dominated Communist East Germany.

Moscow's agreement that the western part of the city — separated from the eastern part by the Communists' "wall of shame" — is part of the legal and economic system of the Bonn Federal Republic.

The right of West Berliners to visit East Berlin.

West Berlin's representation abroad by Bonn.

The Russians agreed to Brandt's request for a speedy settlement. Yet five months later there is still no sign that the Berlin problem is any nearer to a "satisfactory" solution.

Commenting on Brandt's dilemma, an East European diplomat who knows the Kremlin leaders suggested that what Western politicians neeed is a handbook on how to negotiate with Moscow.

"Simple-minded gestures of good will in any negotiations with the Russians are always a fatal error," he warned.

"It is in the nature of Marxist-Leninists to be suspicious of one-sided concessions by capitalists, however well-meaning. They are only encouraged to ask for more."

To the detriment of NATO's unity, Brandt became in effect the key man in Russia's plan for a European security conference, preferably without U.S. participation.

To appease Warsaw, Brandt affirmed the Oder-Neisse line as the final border between Germany and Poland. According to the Potsdam agreement of 1945, only a peace treaty between Germany and the major allies who defeated Hitler — the United States, Russia, Britain and France — could give final legality to the German-Polish borders.

West Germany offered Russia lavish trade agreements. A Brandt science aide even predicted that a West German satellite would one day be launched into space by a Russian rocket.

The Russians accepted Brandt's concessions but have as yet made no move on Berlin. In fact their position seems to have stiffened.

Viet's Ky Doesn't Deserve Contempt

"Americans don't like me because I tell them what I think."—Nguyen Cao Ky

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — NEA — The military visit of South Vietnam's Vice-president Nguyen Cao Ky has provoked a singular and predictable reaction in America: Ugh.

Students have greeted his brief public appearances with four-letter condemnations. Many adults have tended to view his coming and goings with the same, almost racial, suspicion given Japanese envoys after World War II. Newspapers have generally printed his pronouncements on the ho-hum pages. There have even been threats, though nothing serious, made against his life.

I submit this is unfair, unnecessary and beneath us all.

I've known Ky professionally since 1965. And in watching a succession of Vietnamese leaders as an off-and-on war correspondent, my opinion is that he has been wrongly made the public dartboard for all the frustrated anger over Southeast Asia.

I do not intend to praise him here. I do not even like the man. Last year I was refused a visa to Vietnam because Ky officials condemned a story I wrote in 1966. I remember vividly a time I was ejected from a table in a Saigon restaurant because Ky and his wife, Mai, wanted to eat. And trying to talk to the conceited fellow has been like pulling teeth from an elephant with a string.

Like most, I'm not impressed with his braggadocio or peacockishness. I resent his constant needling of the sacrifices of my nation. And I'm convinced his 27 months as his nation's premier were filled with mediocre blah.

Yet does he deserve only contempt? No.

His youth, like his later years, was flamboyant but far from frivolous. The French taught him to fly. He married a French-Algerian, cheated her and dumped her. He drove fast cars, wore dark glasses and lived something beyond his means.

So far, he wasn't much.

Then in 1963, Saigon's military overthrew the virtual dictatorship of Ngo Dinh Diem. Ky, only 33, was selected to capture the Air Force. He did so by assembling 500 officers in an hangar and asking those with him to step forward. All 500 did so immediately.

In the next 20 months South Vietnam suffered a disastrous series of six successively inept governments. Until 1965, largely because nobody else would risk it, Ky accepted the top post he was to hold until free elections in 1967.

I've already said his administration was uninspiring. Yet it worked longer than any other in the war except the present one. It was not able to cope with the corruption of the hopelessly tangled Saigon civil service, but it kept the nation relatively whole at a time when one or two more overthrows might have ended everything.

A popoff, Ky was. And embarrassingly unpolitical. Yet, by the prevailing standards of his country, he was honest. It was a time when high government offices could be purchased in card games (provincial commands sold for $100,000), yet Ky, so far as is known, was not sticky-fingered. There is a report that he received about $50,000 in secret funds once; in Vietnamese politics this is chicken feed.

U. S. officials openly enjoyed working with him. He made decisions not wise but fast and that was of critical value at the time. He fought and defeated Buddhist underminings, student protests and worker strikes, and quite possibly saved the nation in so doing. He made some moves to increase welfare and refugee benefits for the ravaged populace. And in a nation that had all but lost all face in the world, he stood up to the United States at times and spit in her eye.

Yes, he is impetuous. Yes, he did say he once admired Adolf Hitler. Yes, he has never been for free elections ("What good do elections do people when they are starving?"). Yet who are we to judge him so severely, sitting as we do, most of us, snugly secure? The Communists have a million piaster price on Ky's head. I have seen him weep at the sight of his own dead soldiers. He is no monster. Perhaps he is guilty only of choosing his side prior to, rather than after, the war's end.

Gadgets vs. Man On Space Probes

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washintgon Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The importance of the Soviet automatic lunar vehicle is not that it's a scientific breakthrough which moves them into the lead in space. For it isn't.

It doesn't compare with what the United States has accomplished in twice placing astronauts on the moon.

But the feat is significant all the same.

For it seems to indicate that Soviet space policymakers have learned a lesson which our own National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not yet learned — that the most practical way to explore space for the immediate future, at any rate, is through unmanned scientfic gadgetry, and not with man.

This gadgets-vs-manned-flight is now raging full force within NASA.

As of today, the group in control is convinced that man-in-space must be the core of the American program. This decision is being fought vigorously, but so far unsuccessfully, by a determined group of men who, at a drop of a slide rule, will scratch hundreds of equations on the blackboards that line NASA's office cubicles (for scientists), proving that almost anything man can do that needs doing, gadgets can do — for a lot less cost.

To a major degree, of course, this reflects a major difference of opinion on "what is worth doing" now.

The gadget men favor prime emphasis on developing immediate practical uses of space — weather forecasting, geological surveying, monitoring crop diseases and forest fires, mineral exploration, flood prediction and television and general communications — all these for earth.

They want to step-up in tornado, cyclone and hurricane watching from space to provide the advance warnings needed to prevent tragedies of the magnitude Pakistan is now suffering.

As for the moon and the planets, the gadget men would seek the the basic scientific data that unmanned probes, sensors and automatic vehicles could gather.

Both in the Soviet Union and in the United States, the costs of space travel have become so great, and other national needs so pressing, that each space dollar (or ruble) must be spent where it will accomplish the most.

Wants to Drink Pure Water

Editor, The Freeman

This past spring our country was suddenly awakened to the serious problem of pollution. Government at all levels, Federal, State, and local began creating commissions and programs to investigate causes and recommend solutions to these problems.

Two of the biggest causes they found for the pollution of water were detergents and D.D.T. One big reason for this is because they are both inorganic and they do not break down in water. Sodium Fluoride like DDT is a first rate pesticide and also like DDT it will not break down in water.

Detergents became popular because people wanted an inexpensive and effective cleaning agent. Detergents proved to be very good when used in the proper amounts.

The problem developed because in their hurry to take advantage of this the people didn't bother to check the long range effects of detergents. They collected in our streams, rivers, and lakes, causing foam and slime and killed millions of fish.

With DDT the problem was similar. When it was first developed it was praised as a very effective pesticide yet harmless to the crops. Everyone knew that DDT was a poison however when controled it was safe, they said.

Again the unanswered question was, what happened to the DDT after it was sprayed over the plants?

The insects ate the DDT and died. The problem developed with the DDT that just laid on the ground and was not eaten by insects. This excess DDT was washed into the streams, rivers and lakes where it polluted them and killed the fish.

Now we have sodium fluoride which when taken in proper dosage is supposed to stop tooth decay.

No one will dispute the fact that sodium fluoride is a poison. The key word is dosage. As with many other medicines an overdose can kill you.

How will they regulate the dosage to each individual?

How will they know if the vegetables you are eating were grown with fluoiridated water?

How will they compensate for you if you are a heavy tea drinker? Tea is high in flouride.

A very large amount of our fresh water is used for anything but drinking. For example: Industry uses large amounts water is used for washing people, cars, dishes, watering lawns, filling swimming pools, and many other uses where fluoride has no useful purpose.

Aside from being very wasteful, what is going to happen to our fresh water supplies once this fluoride treated water starts dumping into them as the detergents and DDT did and starts collecting.

I do not wish to deprive anyone of the right to use fluoride if they choose to do so. All I ask is that I be given the right to drink pure water and not add to the problem of water pollution.

'Telling It to Hanoi'

Editor, The Freeman:

In reference to your "Tell It To Hanoi" type editorial of November 28, 1970, may I ask you what do you think you are doing? Are you actually supporting a policy of re-escalating the Vietnam War?

Apparently, President Nixon is threatening North Vietnam with an increase of power because they continue to resist our occupation, as one would expect them to do. Each of the current maneuvers in Southeast Asia — the renewed bombing of North Vietnam, the increased bombings in Cambodia and Laos and now the ground attack into North Vietnam — indicate a step up in military actions that failed to bring results to President Johnson. In fact, Johnson's Vietnam policy forced him out of the presidency because the American public cried for peace and the souls of tens of thousand's dead young Americans.

The President is clearly testing the American public for a new offensive that could only prolong this illegal and immoral war.

Certainly, the commando raid in Sontay designed to release American prisoners of war was couragious but, it was an utter failure. The news of this event left me thinking: what if the rescue team found itself trapped by the enemy in North Vietnam? Would this have been reason for a full scale attack to rescue the rescue team itself as a form of "protective reaction?" Let me ask you to recall the events that occurred in the Gulf of Tonkin a few years back and what that led to.

It is absurb to believe, after what we have seen in Southeast Asia, that renewed flexing of American military muscle would make the Viet Cong more amiable to negotiating peace and the release of American prisoners.

Let us not lose sight of our objectives of winding down the war as quickly as possible. And let us not let an impotent "John Wayne" stunt resurrect that insular attitude of "Tell It To Hanoi.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN R. DONNARUMA

New York Telephone

Phone 'Metroplan' Will Begin Sunday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The toll-free calling area for 28 Mid Hudson Valley telephone exchanges will be expanded Sunday, resulting in an annual saving of a half-million dollars a year for the subscribers, the Public Service Commission announced today.

The change is part of a "metroplan" service that was started in 1969.

The PSC said the service creates a common core area comprising the Poughkeepsie, Kingston and Newburgh exchanges, with subscribers of the other 25 gaining toll-free calling to that core area plus the adjacent exchanges included in the plan.

The exchanges are served by three companies — New York Telephone, Sylvan Lake Telephone Red Hook Telephone.

In another decision, the regulatory agency authorized Pennsylvania Gas Co. to increase its rates next Monday to obtain about $500,000 in additional revenue from its New York State customers in Chautauqua and Cattaraugus counties.

The increases will average approximately eight per cent.

Hechinger will be the keynote speaker at the Bennett College forum. His presentation will be responded to by Dr. Neumaier and Griffin, who is the former superintendent of the Arlington Central School District. The Times reporter wrote a book, "Teenage Tyranny."

Workshops will follow the presentation, with psychologists Dr. Ronald Robbins, Dr. L. R. Newman, Dr. Michael Kulla, Dr. Jack Steingart, and Dr. James Conant.

Pair of Mishaps, Two Citations For City Man

ROSENDALE

A 24-year-old man was involved in two traffic accidents early today and after each mishap he was cited by Kingston State Police for violations.

Trooper J. H. Kohland reported that cars driven by Earl A. Newell, 53, of 16 Amsterdam Avenue, and Kevin W. Reynolds Jr., 24, of 53 Main Street, both in Kingston, were involved in an accident on Route 32 in this township at 12:30 a.m.

Newell was traveling south on the highway and Reynolds allegedly pulled from a parking position into the path of the other vehicle. Reynolds was summoned to appear later before Town Justice Wilfred Doolittle.

Reynolds sustained multiple contusions and possible rib injuries. A passenger in the car, Carol Newell, 21, of 16 Amsterdam Avenue, suffered multiple contusions, a fractured nose and injuries of the left arm, troopers said. They were both taken to Benedictine Hospital.

Another accident investigated by Trooper R. M. Houst of Kingston occurred at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. A car driven by Patrick Doyle, 24, of Boice's Trailer Park, Kingston, was traveling west on Sawkill Road, Town of Kingston, when he lost control. The car left the south shoulder of the highway, hit guard rails and continued on and struck a utility pole and trees.

Doyle complained of pains of the left arm. He was cited by Trooper Houst for driving while intoxicated. The case is scheduled before Kingston Town Justice Robert E. Ferrigan.

At 3:05 a.m. today, troopers said, Reynolds was driving his car north on Springtown Road, in this community, when he lost control on a left curve and the vehicle hit a tree. Troopers reported that Reynolds was cited for driving while intoxicated. The summons is returnable before Judge Doolittle.

Ruling Given On 1969 Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Sept. 14, 1969, crash of a small plane near Germantown, N.Y., was probably caused when the pilot continued flying under visual flight rules despite adverse weather conditions, the National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday.

The Cessna Skyhawk crashed in a field near th Columbia County community during a foggy period, killing Henry P. Gardner, 39, the pilot, and Carol S. Rittinger, 44, both of Poughkeepsie.

Three New Proposals Adopted in Esopus

PORT EWEN

Proposals to raise income eligibility for those over 65, a local law to increase the penalty for illegal dumping, and enforcement of the rules and regulations of Ross Park were adopted by Esopus Town Board Wednesday night following public hearings on all three topics.

Th board approved the increase of from $3,000 to $5,000 income permitted those over 65, who are seeking 50 per cent reduction in real property assessments for tax purposes.

Local Law No. 1 — 1970 to amend a Local Law of 1967 in regard to the penalties for illegal dumping was adopted by the board. The penalty for violators of the original local law was $50 fine. Under the new law the maximum penalty for those convicted of illegal dumping is $1,000 or six months in jail, or both.

Local Law No. 2—1970 adopted by the board provided for enforcement of the new rules and regulations for Ross Park.

Charge Youth With Trespass

STONE RIDGE

An 18-year-old youth was arrested Wednesday night by Kingston State Police on a charge of criminal trespass second degree, after he allegedly was found in the home of Fritz Fiedler on Route 209.

Robert F. Clark of this hamlet, was taken before Marbletown Town Justice Robert Diamond. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of criminal trespass fourth degree and was fined $50, according to State Police. In lieu of payment of the fine he was committed to the county jail.

Charles Wooster Dies, Paltz Educator, Official

NEW PALTZ

Charles Wooster, a senior faculty member at the State University at New Paltz and since March a Trustee on the New Paltz Village Board died suddenly at his home here, Wednesday.

After a successful career as a scientist and businessman, Mr. Wooster accepted a position as professor of chemistry at the State University and had resided in New Paltz during his 10 year association with the college.

Mr. Wooster's short period of service on the Village Board represented his first and only venture into public life.

A widower, Mr. Wooster is survived by a daughter, Miss Elte Wooster of New Paltz and a son, Charles Wooster of New York City.

During his tenure at the State University he was actively involved in academic affairs and represented the faculty of the college in the Statewide University Faculty Senate.

Before coming to New Paltz Mr. Wooster enjoyed a successful career as an industrial scientist and vice president of the CIBA Corporation, a pharmaceutical firm. During this time he made his home in New Jersey, but traveled extensively in the United States and Europe.

Mr. Wooster, born in Deep Rock, Conn., was graduated from Clark University in Worcester, Mass., and received his doctorate from Brown University, where he subsequently served as a member of the faculty.

At the regular meeting of the New Paltz Town Board, Wednesday night, Supervisor Anthony Moriello interrupted the proceedings to announce the news of Mr. Wooster's passing, calling it a "tragically unfortunate occurence."

"During our short association with Mr. Wooster we found him to be concerned, cooperative and a tremendous asset to the community," Moriello said.

The Village Board is expected to announce a message of tribute and condolence at a special meeting tonight.

Wallkill Vols Fight Barn Fire

WALLKILL

Firemen from the Wallkill district responded to an alarm at 5:26 p. m. Wednesday after fire was reported in a large unoccupied frame barn on a back road near this community. The building was destroyed.

About 25 volunteers fought the blaze for about three hours under the direction of Chief Melvin Bedford. The cause of the fire was not determined. The property is owned by a New York City man identified as Albert Proll. Fire units were back in service at 10:48 p. m.

LT. GLENN CONGRATULATES MISS KNIGHT

3 in Waves, 3 With Women Marines

Area Women Join Navy, Marines

Six area young women have enlisted in the service,, according to local Marine Recruiter S/Sgt. Donald Misner and local Navy Recruiter, Chief James Juliano. Three of the women joined the navy's WAVES, while the other three joined the Woman Marines.

Miss Lydia M. Maksym, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maksym of Rosendale, enlisted in the WAVES along with Miss Christina M. Schact, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schact of West Hurley; and Miss Debra L. Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Knight of Kingston.

They were sworn into the service by Navy Lt. (jg) Stewart Glenn at the Armed Forces Entrance Station in Albany.

Sgt. Misner announced that Miss Caroline Weber, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Weber of High Falls has enlisted for two years and has left for Parris Island, S. C., for training. She is a graduate of Rondout Valley High School and attended Ulster County Community College.

Also enlisting in the Women Marine Corps were Miss Mickey Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daley of Wilbur Avenue, Kingston, and Miss Debra Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Catherine Hunter of Overlook Drive, Woodstock.

Miss Daley is at Parris Island while Miss Hunter has completed her recruit training at Parris Island and is scheduled to report to Cherry Point, S. C., for further duty. She is a graduate of Onteora Central High School.

The two recruiters, who maintain offices at Broadway and Maiden Lane, also announced that several area young men enlisted this past month.

Chief Juliano reports that Bruce A. Passer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Passer of Kerhonkson, Thomas C. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett of Ellenville, John J. Chenette, husband of Barbara Chenette of Kingston and Raymond M. and Richard C. Bauer, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Bauer of Red Hook have enlisted for four years and ar presently at the Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill.

Robert W. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Adams of Kingston is also at Great Lakes, but on a two-year enlistment.

Sgt. Misner reports that William Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Small of Kingston enlisted for four years in the aviation guaranteed field and has left for training at Parris Island.

Michael Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis of 49 Holiday Lane, Kingston enlisted for two years and will leave for training in January. He is a graduate of Kingston High School and attended UCCC.

Peter Beaulieu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beaulieu of Route 2, Saugerties, has enlisted for two years and is at Parris Island.

Barry Lindsay, son of Mrs. Thelma Lindsay of RD 1, Saugerties, has enlisted for four years in the aviation program and will leave for training in March. He is a graduate of Saugerties High School.

Nik's Notes A Sensation

MOSCOW (UPI) —If the alleged memoirs of former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev being published abroad have generated a global sensation, other memoirs exist which someday will prove infinitely more interesting.

Among them are the reminiscences of Josef V. Stalin himself and those of his right-hand man, the 80 year-old Vyacheslav M. Molotov, one-time premier, foreign minister and one of the few surviving old Bolsheviks whose career spanned more than half a century.

No official information can be obtained about Stalin's memoirs. But in the past few years there have been intimations that the man who for 30 years was the absolute ruler of his country put down at least part of his extraordinary experience on paper.

political life was described by Vladimir I. Lenin as the "best filing clerk in Russia," has an elephantine memory and has been walking the corridors of supreme Soviet power since the 1917 revolution.

He was reported reliably to have completed his memoirs about two years ago.

The late John Foster Dulles once described Molotov as the ablest foreign minister of this age.

Tales He Could Tell

The tales he could tell would dwarf everything Khrushchev said into relative insignificance. But the taciturn Molotov has not taken anyone into his confidence and his memoirs are unlikely to see daylight until after his death, if then.

Curiously enough, there probably would have been no memoirs at all if there had been no Khrushchev. Memoirs

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV

Dead men tell no tales—but when and if Stalin's memoirs are made public an interesting new light will be shed on Khrushchev's indictment of his onetime patron and associate.

Molotov in Retirement

Molotov alone who is still alive and who actually battled against Krhsuchehv's ruthless de-Stalization campaign can assume the role of Stalin's advocate and defend his late comrade.

In complete retirement since 1961, Molotov, who early in his in Stalin's lifetime were inconceivable.

The attempts at liberalization and democratization of the early Khrushchev era encouraged the writing of reminiscenses.

In his devastating indictment of Stalin at the 20th and 22nd Communist party congresses of 1956 and 1961, Khrushchev requested and encouraged old Bolsheviks and military leaders who had been victimized by Stalin to shar their experiences with the people.

Annapolis Not End for Middies

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — The education of a naval officer doesn't end with Annapolis. Little noticed by the public, the U.S. Navy runs its own graduate school and awards Ph.Ds.

The Naval Postgraduate School, which began with 10 students in 1909 and now has 1,900, moved to Monterey in 1951 and is operated at an annual cost of $12 million. It is fully accredited to issue Ph.Ds.

All students "aboard" the school are officers seeking degrees in one of 11 students offered, such as aeronautics, naval engineering, business administration and oceanography. Civilian attire is worn to class, although most of the students are line officers and pilots.

Typically, after graduation, they stand a tour of duty in the service before being given a shore assignment in which they can carry on the specialty they learned at Monterey.

Education at Monterey, the Navy thinks, is among the best obtainable anywhere. Of a 300-man faculty, 78 per cent have doctorates.

The "PG School" was the first institution to offer degrees in operations research, and ongoing experimentation involves linear accelerators, wind tunnels, lasers, rocket propellants and echoless chambers.

One researcher is treating air with chemicals to produce "holes in the fog" around airports. The oceanographers tell commercial fishermen where tuna, which always swim at practically the same temperature, will be.

"Our task," says Rear Adm. Robert W. McNitt, the superintendent, "is to sense where the various sciences will be heading 10 years from now."

Programs Designed

"Then we design programs to train the people who will be dealing with Navy problems, many of which we can't even imagine now, in 10 years."

Few naval stations are quite as pleasant as the Monterey campus, located in a bird preserve at the former Del Monte Hotel, once one of the West Coast's most luxurious resorts. Brilliant peacocks strut around the hotel porch.

Calley Court Martial—A Stall

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The Calley murder court-martial was stalled late Wednesday by a secret session called to discuss what to do about a nervous former soldier who refused to testify.

The reluctant witness was Alan Boyce, 22, of Bradley Beach, N.J., who also had taken the Fifth Amendment last month at the Ft. Hood, Tex., court-martial in which S. Sgt. David Mitchell was acquitted of charges of assault with intent to murder at My Lai hamlet.

Boyce was a member of the platoon commanded by 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. during the company - strength infantry sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet in March, 1968. Calley, 27, is accused of murdering 102 civilians there.

Boyce, now a civilian, was called by the defense at the Mitchell trial, but by the prosecution here. Prior to taking the stand here he declined to talk with counsel for either side until the arrival from Washington of Capt. John McMahon, an Army attorney appointed to represent him by the judge advocate general's office.

After identifying Calley from the stand, he declined to say whether he even had served in Vietnam. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the presiding judge, gave him a brusque going-over, directing him to answer.

"I still think I'll take my rights," he said.

"Did you know the accused at the (1968) time?" asked Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, the prosecutor.

"I told you, I'll take the Fifth Amendment," he replied.

"You understand, you are directed to answer," Kennedy told the witness. "I'm informing you that there's nothing incriminating about any of these answers, you understand that?"

"I guess so," said Boyce weakly.

Daniel asked Boyce to relate what happened at My Lai on March 16, 1968, and he declined again to answer. At his point, George W. Latimer, chief defense attorney, moved for a closed session "to determine what action should be taken against this witness for refusing to answer and what areas he can go into."

Meanwhile Paul Narkin, a Hong Kong attorney who said he was representing 59 survivors of the alleged May Lai massacre, filed a $400 million suit Wednesday against 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. and the U.S. government.

Narkin said he would seek a 10-day delay today in the court-martial of Calley so he can bring some of the survivors from Vietnam in hopes they could identify Calley. His suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Columbus, Ga.

Calley, a platoon leader in the American Army company that swept through My Lai in March of 1968, is being tried on a charge of murdering 102 civilians in the Vietnamese hamlet.

The suit names as defendants Calley, Army Secretary Stanley Resor and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird. It seeks $200 million in compensatory damages and $200 million in punitive damages.

Narkin said his list of 232 victims and other survivors of My Lai was compiled by the central office of the Unified Buddhist Congregation of Vietnam. He said the survivors now are living at a community refugee camp at Song My, near the site of My Lai.

New Delays In Drug Cases

KINGSTON — Hearings in the cases of three defendants accused of narcotics counts were again adjourned Wednesday by City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Barry Davis, 20, and his 19-year-old wife, Wanda, received adjournments until Friday at 9 a.m. Miss Gail Drolet, 20, of Rt. 4, Box 242, Kingston received an adjournament until Dec. 8. The Davis' were remanded to the county jail. Miss Drolet was previously paroled in custody of her parents.

The three were arrested earlier last month on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree and criminal possession of instruments adapted for use of drugs. police said they found a bottle cap that had evidence of burns allegedly caused by cooking heroin in a room at the Stuyvestant Hotel where the Davis' resided.

Judge Richter also adjourned until Dec. 8 the case of Albert Danield LaTorre, 16, of New Salem, who was arrested Oct. 27 on charges arising from investigation of the fire-bombing of the administration offices at Kingston High School. LaTorre was charged with first degree arson and three counts of falsely reporting an incident-telephone bomb threats to the school.

Three juveniles also faced charges as the result of the fire-bombing.

IBM Sues Memorex Corp.

ARMONK — International Business Machines Corporation has instituted a lawsuit against Memorex Corporation charging wrongful appropriation and use of IBM trade secrets and confidential information.

The action seeks to enjoin Memorex and Peripheral Systems Corporation, its wholly owned subsidiary, from continued use of IBM trade secret information and from seeking to hire IBM employees for the purpose of obtaining confidential information. The complaint also asks that Memorex Corporation be ordered to return to IBM all documents, writings or drawings which contain IBM trade secrets or confidential information.

The suit was filed today in the Superior Court of the State of California, Santa Clara County.

Amenia Death Hunting Mishap 'For the Record'

AMENIA, N.Y. (AP) — State Police investigating the death of New Jersey man near this Dutchess County community said they are "calling it a hunting accident for the records."

Troopers found the body of James Pellucci, 39, of Lodi, N.J., late Tuesday in a wooded area near Amenia after the discovery of his car on a nearby road led to a search involving a helicopter and bloodhounds.

"Evidence gathered at the scene and the autopsy indicated he was mistaken for a deer," said investigator George Olsen, who noted that Pellucci was wearing "drab clothing" and had a tissue in his hand. Olsen also said that Pellucci had told several people that he intended to hunt deer at the spot where his body was found. A rifle was found near the body.

The autopsy indicated Pellucci had been struck by two bullets, Olsen said.

New York's Future

Power System Along Statewide Monoply Possible

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A power system along the line of a statewide monopoly may be in New York's future, private utilities have learned.

Joseph C. Swidler, chairman of the Public Service Commission, told electric power companies Monday they may have to look outside their own systems for power in the future.

As an example, Swidler cited plans under which Long Island Lighting and Consolidated Edison would have strong interconnections to share power. The PSC chairman also pointed to "progress" in connecting Con Ed with Binghamton power by means of transmission lines which have been blocked by a Wallkill zoning board.

Stronger interconnections between companies would lessen the threat of brownouts and blackouts, the former Federal Power Commission chairman emplained.

One of the major problems in developing a unified system involving the seven private utilities in the state is the allocation of financial responsibility, the chairman added.

He described the problem as a "key difficulty" for which a solution is being sought.

Swidler said he believes a unified system can be developed that would "do credit" to a single system with a statewide monopoly.

Called by the PSC, the meeting was attended by representatives of the seven utilities, the State Power Authority, the Municipal Electric Utilities Association and the five HSC members.

Swidler said a "good deal" of progress had been made by the utilities in cooperating in the general field of siting for future power facilities and transmission lines.

He said sites that cannot measure up to environmental standards would not be placed on the "shelf" of the utilities.

"In the future, we won't have environmentally objectionable projects submitted," the chairman said.

Asked about the Wallkill transmission line problem, Swidler said "progress" has been made. He noted the project is the subject of a filing with the commission.

The transmission line in question would go through parts of Orange, Rockland and Sullivan counties and would provide Consolidated Edison with reserves from the Southern Tier.

Utilities represented at the meeting included Con Ed, New York State Electric & Gas Corp., Rochester Gas & Electric Corp., Long Island Lighting Co., Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., Orange & Rockland Utilities Inc., and Niagara Mohawk Power Corp.

County Represented at Area Session Of Industrial Arts, Vocation Group

COLD SPRING

At the recent meeting of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Arts and Vocational Education Teachers' Association, Robert Schriber, director of the curricular development and information center for seven counties, introduced a new concept of industrial education. It involves familiarizing elementary school students in grades kindergarten through the sixth grade with the technological society.

This new direction toward younger students has been researched by a qualified group of educators and psychologists who have prepared a manual of their study. A copy of this work has been received by public school administrators throughout seven Mid-Hudson counties including Ulster. It consists of more than 200 ideas and suggestions for grade school teachers to incorporate industrial education in their social studies curriculum. The manual offers a variety of suggested lessons and activities intended to give students basic thoughts and ideas regarding our technological society.

While this idea of elementary industrial education is new, this study allows the individual teacher to implement what he can in the individual classroom situation. Basic industrial concepts formulated in students' minds through this approach will benefit them in junior high school, where industrial arts courses are a part of the required educational program, in high school, in vocational school, in college, and, eventually in the adult working world, for they will have a better understanding of the material world in which we live. Some examples of basic industrial concepts on the elementary level are: what is work?; what is an employer?; what is an employe?; and, what is salary?

The meeting, hosted by the Lakeland Machine and Tool Company, Cold Spring, was attended by 45 industrial arts and vocational education teachers of the Mid-Hudson Valley. A buffet supper was served and a machine demonstration was presented. Also attending was Michael T. Griffin, former superintendent of the Arlington Central School District. Griffin, now working as an educational consultant for Ulster County BOCES is developing a five year program of occupational education opportunity for all grade levels. Griffin spoke to the association about his endeavor and asked that any suggestions for his program be directed to him.

Multi-Faceted Approach

New Paltz Board Clarifies Drug Stand

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board re-stated and further clarified its previously announced commitment to a multifaceted approach to combatting drug abuse in the township at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday night.

The subject came up when Mrs. Martha Hoberecht questioned the board about the recently abandoned methadone treatment program in the community.

Methadone is a non-euphoric substance for heroin. About 20 addicts were reportedly participating in the New Paltz program, which was administered privately by community physicians.

In August the physicians announced that they could no longer administer the program and requested that it be maintained under the authority of the New Paltz Narcotics Guidance Council. However, the Town Board rejected this request and the program was terminated.

Subsequently, one of the physicians, Dr. Jeffrey Wiersum, who was also a member of the Narcotics Guidance Council, resigned from the council and most of the addicts were transferred to another program in Poughkeepsie.

At the Wednesday meeting New Paltz Supervisor Anthony Moriello explained that the Town Board was not responsible for disontinuing the methadone program as the program was at no time under the board's jurisdiction.

Moriello said the Town Board's position now "as it was then" is to carry out a "multi-faceted program to combat drug abuse" and that methadone is but one of the many approaches.

He said that the Town Board was currently discussing a number of programs with the Narcotics Guidance Council and did not exclude the posibility that a methodone therapy program may be under consideration.

Mrs. Hoberecht, who is a part time student at Ulster County Community College and a registered nurse, also expressed her concern for the addicts formerly involved in the New Paltz methadone program.

Paul Tobin, a staff member of the Narcotics Guidance Council, said that while some of them were transferred to the Poughkeepsie program, most have returned to shooting drugs.

In his letter of resignation from the council, Dr. Wiersum stated that thre former methadone patients had died from heroin overdoses, and warned "how many more tragedies like this have to occur, or must it be some one closer to one of us . . . before appropriate action will take place."

However, Tobin, who heads a drug abuse therapy program in the community called CHANGE, does not feel that methadone can cure drug addiction.

A former drug user himself, Tobin said "I don't think methadone keeps addicts from using drugs.

Narcotics Guidance Council Chairman, the Rev. John Van Ness, who also was in attendence at the meeting agreed with the board that a broad based approach should be taken to the problem.

"Because it is such a serious issue, we are trying to assess the various approaches to the problem carefully," Van Ness said, "rather than rush in immediately because of an emotional outburst."

No Polariza tion, Bard Audience Told

By TIM A. SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — Dr. Alexander Campbell, an eminent specialist in American History and Anglo-American diplomacy at Oxford University, told a large and enthusiastic audience at Bard College Wednesday night that there is no "polarization" in American society.

Admitting to visiting this country for the first time in eight years, Dr. Campbell said that news reports in Europe would have everyone believing that there are great important changes taking place in America, and that our society is in great trouble.

But he said he found that the recent national elections told him that the country is moving neither to the right nor left, and in fact is not moving anywhere very fast.

"There is no major issue of principle dividing this country," he asserted. "Polarization is absolute nonsense." Dr. Campbell gave The Freeman the example of the religious issue in Northern Ireland as befitting his definition of polarization.

He classified the much-beleaguered "generation gap" as nothing more than different lifestyles between those with long hair, smoking pot, and playing frisbee on the lawn compared to those with short hair, drinking beer, and bowling.

He avowed that he could see no parallel today with the McCarthy period in the early 1950s.

Concerning the question of the student shootings on campuses last spring, Dr. Campbell assessed them with the question as to whether similar events in the future were more or less likely. He concluded that even though the government "whitewashed" the National Guard, it took steps to forestall further incidents and thus reduced the likelihood of repeating the tragedies.

Dr. Campbell viewed only two things that might tend to polarize our society: the Vietnam War and the state of the economy.

"It now looks like a stalemate while people steadily lose interest," he said of the war. About the economic state he said, "Should we save or spend our way out of the recession?" He tended to think that an unworkable combination would be tried, but that the effort would prevent any polarization.

On fringe political movements he said, "Is the revolutionary left significant?" His historical view is that this will come to nothing because the gurus of the left are divided between optimism and pessimism.

Dr. Campbell sought to characterize the American populace as slightly different than that of other national states in some respects. This included a reference to American singlemindedness in tackling any task, to the exclusion of all else.

"I irritate my American wife by doing a crossword puzzle while watching television," he commented, and quoted former British Prime Minister Arthur Balfour as saying," Nothing matters very much, and very little matters at all."

He indicated that this American attitude might be seen in the game of football, where specialists abound for every duty in contrast to the European game of soccer in which it is difficult to tell who is attacking and who playing defense.

Othere observations contained in his witty and pertinent talk: "The United States has always had an unusual degree of national security."

The U.S. has "hardly ever" closed ranks in the face of foreign threat as do other nations, but is historically divided.

"However you resolve Vietnam, the simple device of flag-wagging has proved unsatisfactory" in closing ranks.

And some mild disapprobations included a reference to the "neon-lit desolation" at the center of all American towns as a byproduct brought about by singlemindedness in making money.

He also characterized capitalism as opposed to Soviet "socialism" as societies "based on competitive greed and competitive envy."

The dominant theme was that, from an historical point of view, the problems which seem overwhelming will be solved by the function of intelligence, and will promptly be replaced by other problems.

Paltz Hearing on School Plan

NEW PALTZ — A public hearing on a proposal to construct a 10 classroom addition to the Duzine Elementary School here, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the New Paltz Middle School.

The proposal, which has received strong backing from the New Paltz Central School District Board of Education, will be voted on by taxpayers in the district in a bond issue referendum on Tuesday.

Balloting will be conducted in the Middle School from 2 to 9 p.m.

Taxpayers in the district must register in order to vote in the referendum, and the registration deadline is today at 4 p.m. in the School District Business Office.

According to district officials, the 10-room addition, expected to cost about $800,000, is an "economical solution to the classroom shortage in the elementary school because it will "cost a minimum in additional operating costs, will receive a high proportion of state aid, and will be relatively inexpensive to construct."

Opponents of the proposal criticize what they call a "costly addition to the school," and favor instead the construction of a separate facility built in a different sector of the School District.

Three Arrested On Possession

CATSKILL — Three men were arrested at 3 a.m. today by State Police on charges of criminal possession of stolen property, a felony, after they were stopped on the State Thruway near here in an automobile reportedly taken in New York City.

Trooper J. A. Foster of Troop T booked the trio as Julio Sanvria, 23, and Esreel Dias, 20, both of Brooklyn, and Elios Marales, 21, of New York City.

The accused men were committed to the Greene County jail in lieu of $500 bail each pending arraignment.

Boy, 5, One of 35 New Citizens

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Five years and nine months old and clinging tight to a little American Flag he had just been given as he became an American citizen Tuesday, tow-haired Daniel Monroe Gehlert of West Park said exhuberently. "Oh this is what I've always wanted . . . a flag."

The youngster, the adopted son of John and Gertrude Gehlert, both American citizens, was no less excited at the thought of becoming a United States citizen, than the 34 other persons who took the oath of allegience to the United States in ceremonies held at the Ulster County Court House.

Daniel, who came to this country from Germany as an infant, never-the-less enjoyed telling presiding Supreme Court Justice George L. Cobb and others, all about the overseas trip in the big airplane with four propellors. His dad, who is an airline pilot and his mother sought Daniel out for adoption in Germany after they failed to obtain an adoptive child here in the U.S. Daniel's adoption was arranged by German officials, International Social Services and the Poughkeepsie Welfare Agency.

Another youngster, 17-year-old Virginia Marion Mann of 46 Middle Road, High Falls, another native of Germany, also became a citizen Tuesday.

Justice Cobb in a moving address to the new citizens, told them, "you have become citizens of our great nation by choice. The fact that you are citizens by choice rather than by birth is of no particular significance, for we are in a sense a nation of immigrants.

"All through the history of this country, immigrants to the United States have made distinctive contributions to the building of the nation and the evolution of American life, and I know that each of you, in turn, will make your particular contribution to the strengthening of our country to the end that it will become a better place in whic' to live."

Outlining the privileges of U.S. citizenship, as well as the obligations accompanying it, Justice Cobb concluded by saying, "America is by no means perfect today. Problems of which we are all aware exist in our society which cause concern to all of us and call out for attention. However, the existence of such problems should never weaken our spirit as American citizens. It must be remembered that we are not a static society — we are always in the process of change. Each new generation faces problems which are unknown to its parents.

"Perhaps the greatness of our nation lies in its ability to respond to change, to new challenges and arrive at solutions that eventually lead to a better society." I am confident that, as a nation, we are possessed of a national character, a national will, that is equal to the task before use: that through understanding and cooperation and a renewed dedication to our democratic principles we will solve the problems of today, as we have met and solved the problems of the past, and go forward to build a better America."

Others becoming citizens included Chaun Chin Chang, formerly from China, and a resident of Wawarsing; Carl George Edlund of Sweden, now of Esopus; Mrs. Louisa Mabel Edlund of England, now of Esopus; Mrs. Sarah Baczkowski of Agrentina, now of Monticello; Paul Baczkowski of Poland, now of Monticello; Mrs. Kathleen Ruth Birckenfeld of England, now of Monticello; Mrs. Molly Georgina Storaasli of England, now of Mt. Tremper; Miss Anita Christa Eppert of Germany, now of Pine Bush; Dr. Ali Mohamad Naghsh of Rian, now of Kingston; Mrs. Louise Vercelli of France, now of New Paltz.

Also, Miss Millicent Elfreda Saunders of Panama, now of Ellenville; Mrs. Aloisia Maria Tatunczak of Austria, now of Kerhonkson;; Mrs. Maria Scanga of Cuba, now of New Paltz; Mrs. Helen Ester Lake of Finland, now of Long Eddy; Ying Chang Lo of China, now of Kingston; Mrs. Annelies Hein of Germany, now of Ellenville; Alfred Gunther Hein of Germany, now of Eddyville; Mrs. Roselia Huerta Walter of Cuba, now of Loch Sheldrake; Shalmon Bauman of Israel, now of Woodridge; Steve Kazsek of Hungary, now of Saugerties.

Also, Mrs. Fanni Schaefer of Germany, now of Oakland Valley; Mrs. Sarah Murnaghan McLoughlin of Ireland, now of Shokan; Miss Elena Margareta Saenz of Cuba, now of New Paltz; Mrs. Hisae Kakauchi Kelly of Japan, now of New Paltz; Wilhelm Peters of Germany, now of Saugerties; Mrs. Mary Seniuta of Poland, now of New Paltz; Angelo Salvatore DiPaola of Italy, now of Glasco; Mrs. Helen Marie McDonough of Canada, now of Saugerties; Joseph Bezkorowajnyj of Ukraine, now of Ellenville; Mrs. Louise Boyle of Austria, now of Kingston; Mrs. Ingrid Erna Deising of Germany, now of Kingston.

Anthony M. DeGaeto of the Department of Immigration recommended the petitioners.

Those taking part in the ceremony also included Joyce Schirick Auxiliary 1386, VFW, Mrs. Sidney Lane, president, presenting the colors; Kingston High School A Capella Choir which included Siri Costello, Jeanette Soffos, Diana Souers, Dale Elmendorf and Judy Wisner. Also Gary, Mitchell, Richard White, John Mannello and Douglas Tatara.

Arrangements were made by the office of the County Clerk Albert Spada with Mrs. Clare Burden and Mrs. Jane Davidson in charge.

End of a Courageous Fight

By JON POWERS

HIGHLAND

Cathryn Mackey, who for 29 years waged a courageous fight for survivial against overwhelming odds, was buried today in Highland Cemetery.

The 29-year-old graduate of Highland High School, who underwent a delicate kidney transplant operation in September, 1968, died suddenly on Monday at the same New York City Hospital where she was given a new lease on life two years ago

Miss Mackey was born with three kidneys. Two were removed before her fourth birthday and the third was taken out in an operating room at Montefiore Hospital in the Bronx in August, 1968.

One month later, Miss Mackey underwent the kidney transplant operation. The life-saving gift came in the form of a healthy kidney from her sister, Mrs. Sharon Dorn, who now lives in Rhinebeck.

After the operation, doctors reported that she was "doing fine," and they expressed optimism that she would be able to lead a normal adult life.

That hope never reached fulfillment. Miss Mackey made frequent trips between her Highland home and the New York City hospital for tests and observations, but was unable to return to work at the DeLaval Separator Company in Poughkeepsie.

CATHRYN MACKEY

Early Monday morning, Miss Mackey suffered a relapse and was rushed to Montefiore Hospital. Emergency treatment failed and she died that morning.

During the years when her illness reached its most serious stage, the popular and pretty brunett captured the hearts and sympathies of people thorughout the Mid-Hudson Valley. A Cathy Mackey Trust Fund was established by friends and fellow workers to help defray the enormous hospital and medical costs.

Events ranging from bake sales to airplane rides to dances and dinners with top flight entertainers were held in and around Highland. Peg Leg Bates was among the entertainers who pledged total support of the trust fund and teenagers, housewives and politicians all joined together in attempt to pull Miss Mackey through her crisis. An estimated $30,000 was raised.

Miss Mackey was born in Marlboro Feb. 1, 1941 the daughter of Stephen R. and Wynetta Stewart Mackey and was graduated from Highland High School in 1958.

In addition to her parents and sister, she is survived by two other sisters, Mrs. Kenneth (Carole) Roberts of Millbrook and Mrs. Philip (Shelia) Atkinson of Gaithersberg, Md. and two brothers, David and Wayne, both of Highland.

A high Mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at St. Augustine's Church in Highland.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, at the office of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, 11 hand carried, Bureau of Finance, 50 Wolf Road, Sixth Floor, Room 630, Albany, New York; if mailed, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, Bureau of Finance, Albany, New York 12201 until 11:30 A.M., December 17, 1970, for the following work at Mongaup Pond Public Campsite, Town of Rockland, Sullivan County, DeBruce, New York, and will be publicly opened and read at the time and place mentioned above.

The work shall consist of furnishing all labor, materials and equipment required to construct approximately 20,000 square yards of bituminous (mix in place) road surfacing.

Engineers Estimate $57,000.00
Required Deposit 3,000.00

Drawing, specifications and proposal forms may be obtained from W. A. O'Brien, Director of Fiscal Management, New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, Albany, N. Y. 12201 or New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, District Director Harry Decker, District #13, Headquarters, South Putts Corners Road, New Paltz, New York, upon payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10.00). No refund of this fee will be made. Checks should be made payable to the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation.

The drawings and specifications may be inspected at:

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, Office of Central Engineering, Sixth Floor, Room 612, Albany, New York 12201.

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, District #13 Headquarters, South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, New York 12561.

All proposals must be made on the official proposal form or an exact copy by reproduction thereof and enclosed in sealed envelope furnished by the Department. Each proposal must be accompanied by a deposit in the form of a properly certified check drawn upon a legally incorporated bank or trust company of the State payable to New York State Department of Environmental Conservation or a bid bond from a Surety Company approved by the State in the amount shown above as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract and furnish the required bonds if the contract be awarded to him. Deposits of all but the two lowest bidders will be returned within forty-eight hours after the time of opening bids. Deposits of the successful bidder and the second lowest bidder will be returned upon the acceptance of the bonds of the successful bidder and the execution of the contract agreement.

The Department of Environmental Conservation reserves the right to reject any or all bids. An approved performance Surety Bond to the extent of One Hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price and an approved Surety Bond guaranteeing the labor and materials to the extent of One Hundred per cent (100%) of the Contract price will be required from the successful bidder.

No proposal shall be considered from a "Foreign contractor," i.e., in the case of an individual, a person who is a legal resident of another state or foreign country, in the case of a firm or co-partnership, one having one or more partners legal residents of another state or foreign country and in case of a corporation, one having its principal place of business in another state or foreign country unless such contractor has on file with the Environmental Conservation Commissioner a Certificate of the New York State Tax Commissioner that any taxes due and payable by such contractor under the provisions of Articles Nine-A and Sixteen of the Tax Law prior to the submission of the proposal have been paid.

To the defendants NATHAN L. FINKELSTEIN and JILL DIAMOND FINKELSTEIN:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. Louis G. Bruhn, a justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, signed on the 30th day of November, 1970 and filed in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County on the 1st day of December, 1970; the complaint having been filed in the Office of the Clerk of Ulster County on the 16th day of November, 1970.

The object of this action is to foreclose a mortgage upon the premises described below, executed to Alfred G. Parke and Jerrie T. Parke on June 17, 1968, recorded in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County on June 19, 1968 in Liber 988 of Mortgages at page 886.

The property in question is described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of the Old Glasco Turnpike, and runs from thence north 20 degrees 45 minutes west six hundred and eighty two and one half (682½) feet to a stone; thence North 73 degrees 45 minutes west two hundred and forty five (245) feet more or less to the land now occupied by Mrs. Weslin, thence south 30 degrees 45 minutes west five hundred and seventy five and one half (575½) feet along the aforesaid Weslin and Sanford Magee to a corner in a stone wall; thence still along his lands south 64 degrees 30 minutes east eighty eight (88) feet to a stake; thence south 21 degrees 30 minutes west one hundred and eighteen (118) feet to the center of the aforesaid road; thence along the same south 74 degrees 31 minutes east one hundred and sixteen and one half (116½) feet, thence south 76 degrees 35 minutes east one hundred and forty four (144) feet to the place of beginning. Containing four and sixty one hundredths (4.60/100) acres.

Subject to the right of Ella Riseley to repair a certain water pipe crossing the land conveyed where the pipe now lies.

The above described property and said right given to Ella Riseley, the aforesaid being fully set forth in a deed executed by Alethea Platt to Clara Chichester dated March 1, 1921 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on March 23, 1921 in Book of Deeds 481 at page 46.

Excepting out of the above described property a parcel of two (2) acres which was conveyed by Clara Chichester to Annie A. Tyson by deed dated August 24, 1942 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on August 28, 1942 in Book 628 of Deeds at page 75.

The property hereby conveyed is also subject to a right of way twelve (12) feet in width leading from the Glasco Turnpike to said two (2) acre parcel as conveyed in said Deed to Tyson.

The above described property is also conveyed subject to the terms and conditions of a certain grant made by Clara Chichester to the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation and to the New York Telephone Company dated July 14, 1947 and recorded October 8, 1947 in Book 888 of Deeds at page 389.

Being the same premises conveyed this date by Alfred G. Parke and Jerrie T. Parke, his wife, to Nathan L. Finkelstein and Jill Diamond Finkelstein, his wife, which deed is intended to be recorded simultaneously with this mortgage.

This mortgage shall remain subordinate to a prior first mortgage given by the mortgagors herein to the National Bank of Orange & Ulster Counties, Woodstock Office, dated June 17th, 1968 in the principal amount of $9,000.

Woman Charged With Loitering

KINGSTON — A 36-year-old woman was charged with loitering on property at the J. Watson Bailey School on Wednesday after a complaint by Stephen G. Hyatt, principal, accused her of refusing to leave the school.

According to police Mrs. Shirley E. Culjak of 8 Chapel Street, was released pending an appearance in City Court. The complaint noted that the woman's daughter had been suspended from school on Nov. 23 for refusing to attend physical education classes, and yesterday her mother went to the school and when ordered to leave she allegedly refused.

Agnew Lauds Country

Vice President of the United States Spiro Agnew has extended his best wishes to the Ulster County Citizens Safety Council for their "continued effort s to increase public awareness of the problems of drug usage."

According to Stephen DeMare, public relations director for the Council, the Council sent results of a teen-age drug survey taken at the Ulster County Fair this past summer, to Vice President Agnew.

DeMare said that Vice President Agnew said the results are of interest to him and the thoughtfulness of the Council in sending him the first copy of the results was appreciated.

The Council also received letters of appreciation from Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-99th Dist.), who called some of the teen-ager's responses "quite startling . . . and most informative," and from Anthony J. DiBenedetto, consultant in drug education for the State Education Department who called the results "very interesting an consistent with other such surveys that have been conducted."

DiBenedetto added, "On behalf of the Commissioner (Ewald B. Nyquist), we wish to thank you for your efforts relating to the drug problem and most particularly for sending us a copy of the results of your survey."

Copies hav also been distributed to the New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, the Ulster County Sheriff's Office, the Ulster County District Attorney's Office and the Mid-Hudson Valley School Study Council.

Quill Pen Maker . . . A Rare Craftsman at Work

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A newspaper called him a millionaire, around town they call him the goose man, but Lewis Glaser says he is a spokesman for America.

He says he is the only man in the United States who makes quill pens.

From before dawn to nightfall, seven days a week, the 71-year-old craftsman sits at a table in his walkup apartment-work shop and with 15 deft strokes with a fine-honed knife creates a quill pen every 30 seconds.

"To make quill pens requires a lot of sacrifice," Glaser said. "I have no social life. I get up early in the morning and work at this thing all day long and I do it not because I have to, but because I enjoy it."

Glaser said it all started years back when he was raising geese and people kept asking for quill pens.

But it was not until he was invited to the White House in 1955 to give two of his quills to President Dwight D. Eisenhower that he really did the work as a business. Eisenhower suggested he start making more of the pens and Glaser has been producing 50,000 quills annually ever since.

"I didn't think of any money in this enterprise. I thought I could be a spokesman of America, because I'm grateful of having been born here."

As for being a millionaire, Glaser says he doesn't have any money. He said he got an unfounded reputation for being rich while on a feather hunting trip to Watertown, Wis., where as a youth he worked on a farm.

"When I got there they had a red carpet greeting for me, including a write up in the paper which said this fellow Glaser is a millionaire as a result of making this (quill pens)."

Glaser would not say how much money he has made selling quills, but prices range from two cents—for children who go up to see him in his shop to a $10 gift set which includes a pewter inkwell.

One of his major customers in the U.S. Supreme Court, which buys over a thousand quills every year.

The quills are 10 inches long and the feathers are specially cut to a rectangular shape as they were when John Marshall was on the high court. In appreciation for his work, the high court gave Glaser Marshall's inkwell.

He says he is not going to teach anyone his trade.

"The sort of people interested in this kind of work want big pay, they'd want to be on hours, they'd want to have Saturday and Sunday off and they'd want to make enough to drive around in an automobile."

Phychologists Give Behavior Pattern

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two Emory University psychologists say the person most likely to succeed in life believes he has a measure of control over his own destiny.

Life's losers, on the other hand, tend to feel that luck is the compelling factor and that they can do nothing about it, say the psychologists, Dr. Bonnie Strickland and Steve Nowicki.

They based their conclusions on a year-long study of public school pupils in the Atlanta metropolitan area.

They submitted a lisit of 40 questons to the pupils and checked the answers against educational achievements. They called the master-of-my-fate types "internals" and the luck-is-all believers "externals."

Those who indicated they were internals, said Dr. Strickland, almost invariably were the better students and most likely to be class president, to belong to scholastic and social organizations and to be regarded as popular.

The passive externals, she said, drifted aimlessly along, believing that luck played a large part in their lives and that they had no control over their fate.

Results of the study, the psychologists said, may have implications for those trying to devise methods of teaching children who resisiit the learnng process.

Nowicki said methods of re-orienting children toward an internal approach might some day be used at the preschool level.

Dr. Strickand said the test, called the Nowicki-Strickland Personal Reactioin Survey, might be used to help determine which students are more suitable for college.

Nowicki said the experiments generally show black pupils to be more externally oriented than their white classmates and that the gap widens with age and experience.

That finding, he said, is not surprising.

"The lower socio-economic classes don't have the money and the opportunities to make changes in the events affecting them," he said.

'Still a Man'

GUILDFORD, England (UPI) —Twenty girls wearing children's clothes lined up Tuesday to sit on the lap of Ted Finch, a department store Santa Claus. He could not have been happier.

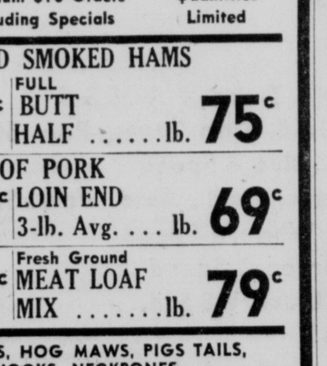

But Finch took so much time chatting with each girl—all from a local college—that the line of real children grew and department store officials had to step in to break up the party.

"I may be 79—but I'm still a man," Finch said.

Judy Has Watch

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Judy Agnew, wife of the vice president, says she owns a "Spiro T. Agnew" wristwatch.

She made the comment to newsmen at a reception Tuesday, but she was not wearing the watch, which has a caricature of Agnew on its face.

Heights to Petition for Sewers

BARCLAY HEIGHTS

The newly formed Barclay Heights Homeowners Civic Association is currently mobilizing its forces to circulate a petition for signatures requesting Saugerties Town Board to institute a feasibility study for a sewerage district in the Barclay Heights area.

The association, after several meetings and discussions with town officials, have taken affirmative action to draft a petition. A survey of association membership just completed indicates that 93 per cent are in favor of conducting a feasibility study.

A committee of the association met recently at the home of Frank Yaeger, chairman, to draft a petition outlining a sewerage district, similar to the district recommended in the comprehensive sewerage study of Ulster County Planning Board.

The petition would request the Town Board to institute a feasibility study on a project to provide sewerage facilities for the Barclay Heights area including Glasco.

The request asks that maps and plans be prepared including identity and boundaries of a proposed sewerage district, estimates of the cost of construction and first year annual cost and annual assessment.

The petition requires 51 per cent of the signatures of the real property owners of the proposed district. A survey of the district will have to be made to determine the total assessed valuation of the proposed sewer improvement area.

The association is currently soliciting the aid of Barclay Heights residents interested in circulating the petitions house-to-house. Those wishing to volunteer may contact Mrs. Robert Finger Jr., 12 Birchwood Drive, or the association president, Robert Tigue.

As soon as the teams for circulating the petitions are formed, the house-to-house canvassing will begin.

Signing of the petitions does not necessarily indicate that the signer is in favor of the sewer proposal. The petition merely asks the Town Board to institute a feasibility study which would be presented at a public information meeting of residents of the Barclay Heights area.

A final vote on approval of the project would be conducted when all the facts and figures are known and reviewed at a public hearing.

The association's press release this week notes that the need for sanitary sewers in the Barclay Heights area has been repeatedly expressed by members of Saugerties Town Board, Harry F. Edinger, county director of environmental sanitation and by the town's consulting engineers in their recent study of the area.

The problems of poor drainage and reports of percolation problems in regard to septic systems have been a matter of record in reports made a various town meetings.

VIP Tickets

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Novice G. Fawcett, president of Ohio State University, has given President Nixon two tickets to the Rose Bowl game between the Buckeyes and Stanford.

The President won't be able to use them, however, since he plans to stay at the White House through the holidays. "You can't do that," Nixon told Fawcett when he got the tickets. "I might scalp them."

Morse Pupil In Running for Boone Contest

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. John Rell, Quarryville, are the excited parents of "John John" Rell, as he is called. They have been notified that their son is one of 20 finalists in the "Israel Boone Look Alike Contest", sponsored by Channel 6, WRGB, Schenectady.

"John John" will travel to Schenectady on December 8 where he will be taped on a television spot and be assigned a number. Home viewers will then have the opportunity to vote for their choice.

"John John" is a kindergarten pupil in the class of Mrs. Ann Giannone at the Grant D. Morse School.

Apollo Stamps Are Available

NORFOLK, VA.

Manned Spacecraft Recovery Forces of the U.S. Navy will provide commemorative cachet and cancellation services for the upcoming Apollo 14 manned flight to the moon.

Philatelic coordinators designated for the Atlantic and Pacific Fleet Recovery Forces (Task Force 140 and 130) will receive all such covers and make distribution to assigned recovery ships.

To permit adequate time for handling of covers, collectors should send pre-stamped, self-addressed envelopes to the appropiate coordinator at least three weeks prior to the schedule launch of Apollo 14, covers should be received prior to January 8.

In accordance with U.S. Postal regulations, only United States postage may be used on covers submitted. Stamps (postage) of other countries or the United Nations cannot be used. Cash, money orders or checks in lieu of postage cannot be accepted. It is requested that collectors furnish standard size covers a 3⅝ inches by 6½ inches, with a filler inserted to simplify handling.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Retired Newswoman Tells of Presidents

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Slender, attractive and ultra-feminine, Ruth Montgomery looks as though she would be more at home at a White House tea than at a White House press conference. But in her 25 years as a syndicated columnist in the nation's capital she more than once scooped her male rivals.

"Hail to the Chiefs," which chronicles the social, political and diplomatic goings-on during the quarter century she reported them.

"Roosevelt loved to spar with the press and match wits with them," she said, recalling that her first experience was in his jam-packed office. "He held two news conferences a week and would jab with his cigarette holder to illustrate his points.

Mrs. Montgomery, the only woman reporter permitted to attend Roosevelt's funeral, remembers that there was a dramatic change in the First Family when the Trumans came in.

"Bess was warm, motherly, shy. She never held press conferences, feeling that she had nothing to report except the normal activities of a wife," she related. "Truman was an equally great contrast. He would fire off his answers almost before we finished asking the questions, using meat-chopper gestures with his hands. He was a folksy, warm man and I was very fond of him."

"With the end of the war in Korea, we had good, more relaxed peaceful years — we've had so few in this century," she went on. "There was confidence with Ike, a father figure, there. He, like Truman, held press conferences once a week, where he'd sometimes have trouble with his syntax. When he was speaking it sounded fine but when we read it later it was hard to parse a sentence.

The Kennedy administration the author calls "the glamorous years," noting that Jacqueline Kennedy made the American public more aware of the White House than ever before.

"Jack was charming and debonair, witty and very forgetful, always leaving his overcoat and hats on the train or whereever he's been," she said, "he was delightful with the press, but he removed the intimacy of the press conference by moving it to the new State Department auditorium. We had to stand to ask questions and felt more like a performer in a theater than a reporter. He held the first live TV press conference."

Mrs. Montgomery had known the Johnsons for many years before they moved to the White House. She considers Lady Bird, about whom she wrote a biography "Mrs. LBJ," a "remarkable woman, a real do-er and one utterly dedicated to her husband, devoted to his cause."

"LBJ was very gregarious," the author observed. "He would talk about it being the loneliest job in the world but he surrounded himself with people. He was eager to be the best President there ever was and terribly disappointed that there was no demand for him to run again."

The Nixons too she had known, 'ever since they came to Congress when Dick was the newest, greenest Congressman," and she traveled through Russia and Siberia with them when he was vice president.

"He is an enormously capable man who spent nearly two decades preparing himself to do a good job as President if the opportunity arose and who was an effective vice president.

Married Sunday at St. Peter's Church

St. Peter's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Linda Ann Curlin, daughter of Mrs. Eldora Curlin of 70 Smith Avenue, Kingston, and the late Joseph F. Curlin, and Thomas John Lucas, son of Mrs. Dolorita Lucas, 120 Hunter Street, Kingston, and the late Eugene F. Lucas, on Sunday, Nov. 29.

The Rev. Daniel Croston officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nan Goldrick, organist, accompanied Mrs. Frank Sass who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her brother, Joseph M. Curlin of Kingston, the bride wore an A-line gown of chantilly lace, styled with a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her wateau train of matching lace was chapel length and she wore a stylized headpiece to which was shirred her silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, centered with a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Joseph M. Curlin, sister-in-law of the bride, Kingston, was matron of honor in a floor length spruce green velvet gown with contrasting light mint green satin panels revealed by inverted front pleats. A fingertip tulle veil was shirred to a triple Dior bow and she carried a round bouquet of yellow pompons with spruce green ribbon.

MRS. THOMAS J. LUCAS

Mrs. Lester Schwark of Port Ewen, sister of the bridegroom, and Cynthia Curlin of Kingston, cousin of the bride, were attendants. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and they carried round bouquets of yellow pompons with srpuce green ribbons.

Susan Schwark, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl in a spruce green velvet gown similar in styling to those of the other attendants'. A bow headpiece held her three tier veil and she carried a nosegay of yellow pompons with deep green ribbon.

Charles J. Lucas, brother of the bridegroom, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Earl Martin Jr. of Saugerties, and John Tiano Jr., Kingston, cousin of the bride. Martin Joseph Sabin, Saugerties, served as ringbearer, accompanied by Teri Schwark, niece of the bridegroom, and Sue Ann Sabin, cousin of the bride, who wore gowns similar to that of the flower girl's.

A reception for 100 guests was held with relatives from New York and New Jersey in attendance.

For her wedding trip to New York, the bride chose a green dress with brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1970, is employed by Diskay Discount Store, Wall Street, Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, class of 1964, attended Ulster County Community College. He served four years in the U.S. Navy and is employed by Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas will reside at Kingston.

Johnson-Canning Wedding Announced

MRS. MICHAEL J. CANNING

Announcement was made today to The Freeman of the wedding of Miss Pamela J. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith E. Johnson, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Michael J. Canning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Canning, Lucas Avenue Extension, Kingston.

The wedding took place at University of Virginia Chapel, Charlottesville, Va. with the Rev. Howard Gordon and the Rev. Clem Burns officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Sheila Barry of Lynn, Mass. served as maid of honor and Miss Karen Johnson of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., served as bridesmaid for her sister.

John Davella of St. James, N.Y. was best man. William Shapiro of Franklin Square was an usher.

A reception was held at Boar's Head Inn, Charlottesville, Va.

The bride received her BA degree from Michigan State University and is a second year student at University of Virginia Graduate School where she is majoring in Psychology.

Her husband was awarded his AB degree cum laude from Holy Cross College and is a third year law student at University of Virginia.

When Mr. and Mrs. Canning return from their wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., they will reside at Charlottesville, Va.

Miss Diana Lee North Weds M. W. Carlile

Federated Church of Kerhonkson was the setting for the wedding of Miss Diana Lee North of Boiceville and Michael William Carlile of Kerhonkson on Saturday, Nov. 28.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Grace A North of Boiceville and the bride groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carlile of Kerhonkson.

The Rev. Paul Hoty officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. George Schwab, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Floral arrangements decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her brother, Al North, the bride wore a white linen street-length dress with lace cage effect. The dress was styled with a rolled collar and bow detail. A matching linen bow held her chapel-length veil which was trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of roses.

Peggy North of Boiceville was maid of honor for her sister in a deep purple crepe A-line dress with accordion pleated chiffon sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Jeffrey Carlile of Kerhonkson was best man for his brother.

An open house-buffet reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a dark brown pants suit.

The bride was graduated from Onteora Central High School in Boiceville and formerly worked at IBM and Rotron, Inc. at Shokan. Her husband, an alumnus of Rondout Valley High School, attended Ulster County Community College, and is employed at Jay-Vee Rug Company in Kingston. He served two years in the U.S. Navy as an electrician.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlile will reside in the Kerhonkson area.

50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Minervini of Boiceville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at Merriott Hotel, Saddle Brook, N.J. on November 1.

A formal dinner-dance was given in their honor by their six children, daughter-in-law and son-in-law: Mrs. Grace Berardi of Cliffside, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sirro of North Bergen, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. John Minervini of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minervini of Woodstock; Anthony and Robert Minervini of Boiceville.

Married Oct. 20 1920 in Connecticut, they have 10 grandchildren. Before their retirement they operated Minervini's Pizzeria in Boiceville.

Approximately 80 guests attended the gala.

'Messiah' Performance Planned Sunday Afternoon at West Point

A combined choir and orchestra will perform the Advent and Christmas portions of Handel's "Messiah" Sunday, Dec. 6 at 3:30 p.m. in the cadet chapel, West Point.

Participants in the 12th annual performance include the Nyack Missionary College chorus, the Ladycliff College glee club, the West Point post chapel choir, the Hartwick College choir and the Harriman College chorale.

Roy F. Seeber will direct the orchestra and chorus. Soloists will include his wife, Mrs. Ruth Seeber, contralto; Mrs. Dorothy Ann Davis, soprano; Philip DelPizzo of Middletown, tenor; and Elliot Nordgren, conductor of the Nyack Missionary College chorus, bass.

Dr. John A. Davis Jr. will be organist and Army Specialist Five John H. Tuttle will be harpsichordist.

The public is invited to attend the free performance.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I make rag dolls for my little girl.

I sew the head, arms and legs to the dress, then stuff the whole thing with those soft add cotton yarn hair and plastic dry cleaner bags. Then embroidered features.

It can be thrown in the washer for easy cleaning, and dries quickly on the line.

I made one doll using the same fabric as the cushions on the rocking chair in her room. The doll looks cute sitting in the chair and is one of my daughter's favorite "babies."

Lulu

And you're a "baby doll" for sending in such a cute hint!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a marvelous household tip for you.

If your dacron, nylon and other "on" garments have turned yellow or tattletale gray, try washing them in your washer using a dishwasher detergent (same amount) instead of regular detergent.

You will be amazed and delighted at the results.

Lorraine Gifford

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little hint on cleaning your corduroy, pastel-colored slippers:

Mine got kind of dingy with daily wear, so I tried my aerosol spray rug cleaner.

Now the slippers look as good as new!

Mrs. LaRoque

Dear Heloise:

Unfortunately my husband and I don't get out very often, so our 3-year-old son is not very familiar with baby-sitters.

However, when we do go out, I send the baby with Daddy to pick up the sitter. Baby then brings his new friend home to meet me.

We've been doing this for over two years and have never had an unpleasant incident, as baby and sitter get acquainted on the way over, and he can't wait for us to leave.

Jane Kneale

Dear Heloise,

I fill my roast chicken with well-seasoned, cooked and drained noodles.

A cup of chopped fresh mushrooms, cooked in butter, or the same amount of fresh oysters with a little scraped onion — plus plenty of butter and seasonings — added to the noodles, make this stuffing especially terrific!

Mrs. M.T.P.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

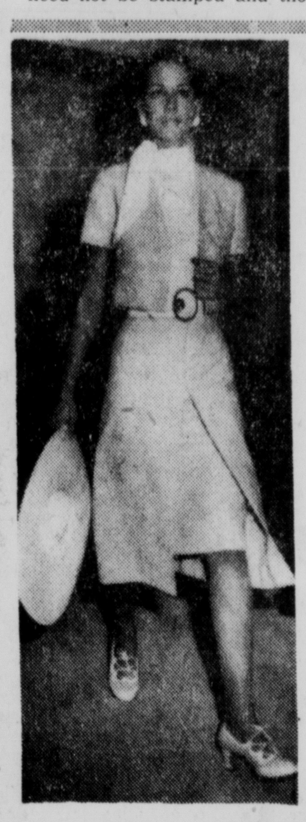

Recently you told us about the meaning of TGIF (Thank Goodness It's Friday) . . .

The only bad thing about TGIF is the fact that it's followed very shortly by OSIM (Oh Shucks, It's Monday).

Secretary

DEAR SANTA — It's that time of the year again and these four youngsters aren't wasting any time posting their letters to Santa Claus. Santa's Mailbox is located in front of the Toy and Hobby Shop in the Kingston Plaza. Letters to Santa need not be stamped and those with a return address will be answered provided they are in the box by December 19. The Kingston Jayncees are Santa's helpers in this instance. The eager youngsters are (L-R) Jill Hendershot, Tommy Kayma, Randy Hendershot and Billy Kayma. (Freeman photo by Haines).

ANOTHER "PRETTY" OUTFIT — The pretty dress was the common denominator in the majority of more than two dozen fashion openings previewed recently at New York's Seventh Avenue. Severe hairstyle, scarf and large chapeau complete this ensemble. (UPI Telephoto)

Jobs Harder to Find

Changing supply-demand situations, especially in teaching, may have a particularly adverse effect on women college graduates in 1970, according to Herbert Bienstock, regional director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Speaking before the Long Island Board of Cooperative Educational Services at Hofstra University in Hempsted, N.Y., the director said the college graduate of the 1970's will find the job hunt much tougher than did his counterpart of the 1960's.

After a long period characterized by difficulty in recruiting enough highly trained workers, the decade of the 1970's promises a rough balance between supply and demand for the college-educated personnel, he said.

An estimated 10.4 million new college graduates will be needed between 1968 and 1980, Mr. Bienstock said. About 10.5 million new degree recipients and others with college-level training are expected to enter the work force during the same period.

Mr. Bienstock noted that supply and demand of college-trained manpower will not be in balance in all fields. Shortages will continue in professional health occupations and engineering, for example, while significant surpluses of elementary and secondary teachers, life scientists and mathematicians are expected to occur.

Also, the traditional fields of employment for women may not be able to absorb the tremendous increase in women college graduates expected over the next decade.

The number of women receiving bachelor's degrees is expected to jump by about two-thirds between 1968 and 1980, nearly double the rate of increase expected for men.

Band Concert Is Scheduled

More than 100 students will perform Friday when director Lee Harrington conducts the two Rondout Valley High School Bands in their 1970 Fall-Winter Concert. The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. As a token of appreciation for the support given their fund-raising efforts by area residents, the bands will present this annual concert free of charge.

The program will include Concord Overture by Ralph Hermann; School Room Latin by Clement Wiedinmyer; Aria and Fugue by Handel, arrangement by Osterling; Land of the Vikings by Frank Erickson; Lil Gabriel by Art Dedrick, to be performed by Rondout High School Band II.

After a brief intermission, Rondout High School Band I will perform Prelude and Fugue in F Minor by Houston Bright; Caribbean Holiday by Richard A. Otto; Fanfare and Allegro, Clifton Williams; Second Symphony, first movement by Alexander Borodin; Popular Medley No. 1 by Hal David and Burt Bacharach; Theme and Rock-Out by John Cacavas; Toccata by Girdama Frescobaldi; and Sunburst by Eric Osterling.

Helpful Hints

SWEDISH STYLE PARTY BREW

The whole family can enjoy this glogg, for it is prepared without wine. Simmer cranberry-apple juice with cinnamon sticks, whole cloves and lemon slices until well spiced. Pour into a chafing dish; add raisins and whole blanched almonds. Cover and let it mellow a while over a low heat. Ladle into cups, allowing a few raisins and almonds for each portion. Serve with demitasse spoons.

New Members

The induction of four new members was the highlight of the November meeting of the Kingston Jayncees. President, Mrs. Morton D. Alling III inducted and welcomed new members: Mrs. Richard Burns, Mrs. Jauquin Espinosa, Mrs. Dennis Herbert, and Mrs. Larry Hendershot. Mrs. Thomas Duffy, another new member, could not be present.

The combination induction and membership meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William Kayma, membership chairman. The candlelight ceremony was followed by a business meeting.

The Kingston Jayncees will be helping the Jaycees this December with their Christmas Shopping Tour. Another holiday project is Santa's Mailbox, which is located in front of the Toy and Hobby Shop at the Kingston Shopping Plaza. Children can write letters to Santa at the North Pole and they will be answered by Santa and his helpers.

Guests at this meeting included: Mrs. Bernard Carpinelli, Mrs. Richard Leveque, Mrs. William Purcell, Mrs. William Henderson, Mrs. Robert Nace, a past member, and Mrs. Joel Fox, District II president.

The December meeting will be held December 16 at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p.m. Guests are always welcome.

Christmas Program

The Women's Guild of the Hurley Reformed Church will meet in the Church Hall at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 9, for a covered dish supper and Christmas program. All women of the Church are invited.

Each woman is requested to bring a covered main dish or salad and her own place setting. Dessert and beverage will be provided. Everyone is asked to contribute a small wrapped gift, marked "man" or "woman", to be distributed to infirmary patients.

Mrs. Clifford Henze will be in charge of the Christmas Program. The usual business meeting will be eliminated in favor of an extended period of fellowship and recreation. However, there will be an informal report about the Christmas Bazaar and Luncheon of December 5.

Mrs. Kenneth W. Sandberg may be contacted for information or transportation.

DUNN, N.C.

New Paltz State found out how the other half lives here Wednesday when the Hawk booters were outplayed by Ottawa University of Kansas yet came up with a 2-0 win to advance to the semi-finals of the NAIA championships.

The Hawks take on Davis and Elkins today while top seeded Quincy College battles host Campbell in the other second round game.

New Paltz had lost three regular season matches by 1-0 scores this season. In each Coach Bob Durkin's men controlled the area play and dominated the stats but couldn't find the net and eventually lost. Against Ottawa, the shoe was on the other foot.

While the Kansas team was firing 29 shots at the NP cage, the Hawks could manager just ten. Only the sparkling play of goaltender Bob Sanborn kept New Paltz in contention. The junior turned aside 21 Ottawa drives, several spectacularly.

On offense, the Hawks, playing without star Elliott Pobbi-Asare and Walter Blair were ineffective. The New Paltz duo was forced to stay behind because of personal problems but will rejoin the team today.

The player who finally did dent the cords was first year man Metcalf King. Taking passes from Bob Hippy and Tsgave Taye, King beat goalie Ed Knight at 11:25 of the first and again at 1:20 of the third.

"We did not play a good game," commented Assistant Coach Pete Kramer. "They controlled the midfield play and nobody really played well for us with the exception of Sanborn who had a tremendous game."

Kramer surmised that the hot North Carolina weather wore the Hawks out, especially since New Paltz didn't do much substituting, not being able to call on Pobbi-Asare and Blair.

In the other first round games, Davis and Elkins became New Paltz's semi-final opponent with a 1-0 win over New Haven College that set an NAIA record by going eight over New Haven College that se' an NAIA record by going eight overtimes. Mike Udolthia's goal broke the scoreless tie and ended a three and a half hour marathon. The previous longevity mark was six extra sessions.

Quincy routed Westmont College of Santa Barbara, Calif., 4-0, with Edmondo Comancho scoring two of the goals. The Illinois team is going after its third title in the 11 year history of the NAIA tournament.

Host team Campbell surprised fourth seeded Earlham of Indiana, 4-1, behind the strong play of Phil Young.

Ottawa will meet New Haven and Westmont takes on Earlham in the loser's bracket today.

STONE RIDGE

When the Ulster County Community College Basketball squad takes the floor against Mercer County Community College in the Nassau Invitational Tournament Friday night, the Senators will be facing one of the perennial leaders of junior college hoop in the country.

The tourney, a two-day affair at the Nassau CCC gym in Garden City, Long Island, begins with the UCCC-MCCC contest at 6:30 p.m. In the second tilt, host Nassau will play Fashion Institute. The winners will face each other Saturday for the crown and the losers will meet for the consolation spot.

Mercer is coached by Howie Landa, rated as one of the top mentors in the country! At the end of the 1967-68 season, Landa was rated as the Number One Junior College Coach in the country. His team was rated Number Two losing a heartbreaker for the National Crown.

In his 10 years as head coach at Mercer, the team has never had a losing record and has won the Region title three times.

Mercer has yet to open their season. Dave Sesko, 6-5 forward leads the club. He is aided under the boards by three 6-4 leapers. They are: Bill Geuss, a freshman; Jack Burness and Jim Taylor, sophomores. Soph Calvin Bullock, a 6-3 starter at forward is also an outstanding player.

Alternating at the guard positions will be Johnny Jones, Ned Nelen, Terry Martin and Rich Freda.

Ulster is 1-1 on the season, beating Post, 84-62 after an opening day loss to a tall Westchester club, 81-66. The Senators offense, paced by Cliff Weeks with 39 points, Glenn Berry—28 and Rod Wilkinson's 26 markers, is averaging 75 points per game on the offense. The defense has allowed an average of 71.5 markers.

Coach Mike Perry plans to start three forwards: Berry, Weeks and Wilkinson. The guards will be George Civile and Roger Govantes.

Fashion Institute has an 0-3 mark thus far. But, the record is deceptive when one considers that the Fashion Five have played three road games against top-flight competition. Kingsborough, Suffolk and Farmingdale have squeezed past the Institute thus far.

Nassau defeated a highly-touted Dutchess County Community College squad, 67-48 in the host club's first game Tuesday night.

Frank Luckazewicz hit 18 points for coach Mike Candell's lads. UCCC fans will remember Luckazewicz for his 22 points in Nassau's win over the Senators in semi-finals of the Region XV tournament last year. He is only returning veteran.

Others on the squad include: Dwight Adams, Tom Brethel and Horace Brawley. All four men scored in double figures against the Falcons of Dutchess.

Hope Joins USGA In Tribute to Ike

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Hope stood admiring the huge photo of a widely-grinning Dwight D. Eisenhower replete in golf cap that stood to the right of the speaker's dais.

"It looks like he just got off a beautiful 15-foot downhill putt and it's sliding right into the cup," quipped the 66-year-old comedian.

Hope was on hand to help launch golf's Tribute to Ike, a $25 million fund-raising campaign to help finance the completion of the Eisenhower Medical Center in Palm Desert, Calif. and Eisenhower College in Seneca, Falls, N. Y. Both projects were begun before the death of President Eisenhower in 1969.

"General Eisenhower, in our opinion, contributed more to the growth of golf than any other individual," said Philip H. Strubing, PGA president. "He demonstrated that golf is for he-men. The general also proved that golf could provide as much pleasure for the mediocre or poor player as it does for the crack golfer."

The 10-month drive will involve a task force of 105 national vice-chairmen and 1,000 regional vice-chairman to solicit contributions from members of private and municipal golf clubs throughout the country. The campaign will end on Oct. 14, 1971, Gen. Eisenhower's birthdate.

Hope, who claims the original idea of a medical center as a tribute to the former President, and who donated an 80-acre site to the project, told his favorite Ike golf story.

"The first time I played with Ike we were partners and I didn't play very well," began Hope. "This was just after Ike had entered the White House (in 1953).

"The next day I played against him," Hope continued. "And I shot a 75. I was betting a dollar, or something, with him.

"He came into the locker room after the game and asked how everyone had done. Then he asked how Hope had done.

"I shot a 75," said the comedian, his tone as measured and self-satisfied in remembrance as it had been that day.

"Ike took out four dollars, put it right in my hand, looked me straight in the eye and said, 'Why didn't you play that way yesterday?'"

"When the President says that to you, it's pretty hard to give an answer."

Canada's Herve Filion Near New USTA Dollar Record

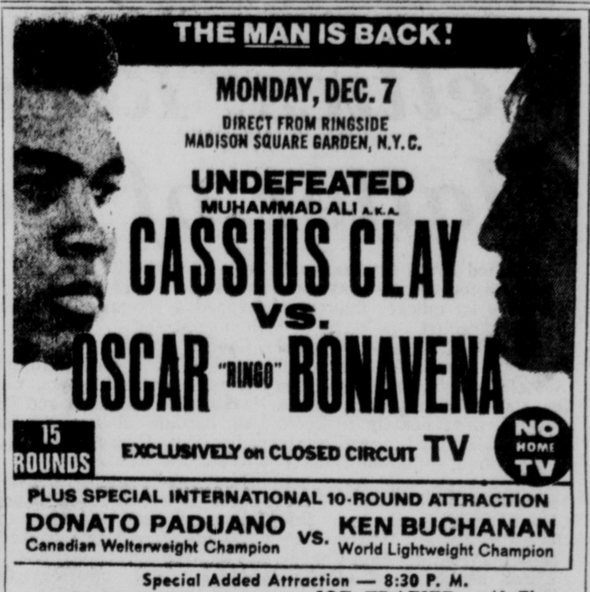

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Establishing another world record with every race he wins, Herve Filion has now also closed to within $172,000 of Billy Haughton's all-time money winning mark, according to United States Trotting Association statistics complete through Nov. 30th.

Now at an unprecedented 441 victories for 1970, the French-Canadian's harness horses have returned purses in the amount of $1,483,080. Haughton's record total, logged in 1968, is $1,654,172.

Filion has already surpassed his own world mark of 407 and seems a cinch to become the first driver in modern harness racing history to capture both the race winning and money winning championships in the same season.

Carmine Abbatiello is the runner-up to Filion in both divisions. With 294 race wins, Abbatiello has banked $1,270,395. The defending champion, Del Insko, is third in money won with $1,253,362.

Sell Buster Mathis

NEW YORK (UPI)—Peers Management Wednesday announced the sale of the contract of heavyweight Buster Mathis to Orlando Lamar of Detroit and Mathis immediately signed to meet Al "Blue" Lewis in Detroit on Jan. 20.

In order to make the sale of contract valid, the New York State Athletic Commission and the Detroit Athletic Commission lifted their suspensions on Mathis. Mathis had been placed on suspension by both commissions in June of 1969 for failing to go through with a fight with Lewis.

Mathis, who once beat Joe Frazier in the Olympic trials in 1964, has not fought since March 28, 1969, when he lost to Jerry Quarry. He has a professional career record of 31-2 with his only other loss coming at the hands of Frazier.

Peers Management also announced a working agreement with Dean Chance, the baseball pitcher who works as a fight promoter in the Ohio area during the off-season. Among the highly-regarded boxers promoted by Chance are heavyweights Dave Matthews, and Jimmy Elder.

Broyles and Royal Form Mutual Admiration Duo

By FRED MCMANE
UPI Sports Writer

Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas has three words he uses to describe Texas—big, powerful, awesome.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas also has three words he uses when describing Arkansas—Balanced, sound, aggressive.

In short, they respect each other's teams so much they figure Saturday's crucial game between the two nationally ranked powers will be every bit as exciting as last year's 15-14 thriller, which was won by the Longhorns.

This year's contest also has the same goal at stake—the winner will be the Southwest Conference champion and will go to the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day to play sixth-ranked Notre Dame.

This year, however, the lower may be left out in the cold as far as a post-season bowl appearance is concerned. Last year, Arkansas went to the Sugar Bowl, but there is only one major bowl opening still available at this late date—opposite Nebraska in the Orange Bowl—and Louisiana State has already been given the nod provided it can beat Mississippi Saturday. Should the Tigers lose, however, then the SWC runnerup would probably get the Orange Bowl bid.

Texas has more than just the SWC title at stake. The Longhorns also are seeking to preserve their No. 1 rating and are currently riding a 29-game winning streak, longest in the nation.

Both coaches think their teams are stronger than last year, and the statistics bear them out. Texas leads the nation in scoring with a 41.1 per game average while Arkansas is second with a 39.5 mark, and Arkansas has permitted only 10.2 points per game compared to 13.1 for Texas.

If there is one thing that is different from last year's game, it is that both teams have key personnel who may not start because of injury. All-America running back Steve Worster of Texas is suffering from a very painful hip injury and is listed as doubtful and the Longhorns also may be minus a couple of defensive specialists.

The Razorbacks, ranked No. 5, are not expected to have running back Bill Burnett ready. However, the Razorbacks seem to have found a capable replacement in John Richardson, who gained 111 yards against Texas Tech last Saturday.

Texas rates as a seven-point pick in the game, and Broyles knows that for the Razorbacks to win they will have to choke off the Longhorns' powerful running game.

"With the backs they have, if you play beautifully they make four yards on the play, if you play it fairly good they make seven and if you don't play it good at all they make 17 yards to a touchdown," said Broyles. "We've got to keep the ball and keep it away from them and make them go a long way to score."

Royal is concerned about the number of fumbles Texas has had this season.

"I think we might be slightly a better offensive team than last season, but we seem to have more fumbles. We can't fumble against Arkansas and expect to win," said Royal.

Louisiana State, which is ranked eighth, is a two touchdown choice over Mississippi, but the Rebels are expected to have quarterback Archie Manning back and he could pose a problem for the Tigers.

Manning has been out for a month with a broken left arm and he will wear a leather protective apparatus on the arm Saturday. However, Coach Charlie McClendon of LSU has warned the Rebels that his team won't be responsible for anything that happens to Manning.

In the only other games of college football's final weekend, ninth-ranked Arizona State is favored over Arizona, Houston is a three-touchdown choice over Miami, (Fla.), fourth-ranked Tennessee is a six-point choice over UCLA and North Texas St. plays Tulsa.

The Short Leafs

The Toronto Maple Leafs have come up short so often this season it must have felt almost routine when they found themselves a man short six times Wednesday night.

On two of those occasions, however, slippery Dave Keon broke away for goals and the Leafs shelled the Los Angeles Kings 7-0 behind Jacques Plante's 74th National Hockey League shutout.

Elsewhere, New York downed St. Louis 4-2 and Chicago nipped Boston 4-3, leaving the Rangers and Bruins deadlocked for the lead in the East Division. In other games, Montreal and Pittsburgh tied 3-3 and Minnesota edged California 3-2.

Keon, who also scored a goal with the teams at full strength for a hat trick, notched his fifth and sixth shorthanded goals of the season, one short of the NHL record set by Boston's Jerry Toppazzini in 1957-8. Five of the six have come since Keon's old penalty-killing partner George Armstrong came out of his umpteenth retirement.

Plante's shutout was Toronto's first of the year but the 41-year-old goalie didn't have it easy. He stopped 35 shots and was particularly sharp against Juha Widing, Bill Flett, Mike Byers and Lucien Grenier.

Third-period goals by Ron Stewart — also shorthanded-Jean Ratelle and Dave Balon helped the Rangers turn back St. Louis. Jim Lorentz and Jim Roberts scored for the Blues in the third period, who trailed 1-0 after two sessions on a goal by New York's Ted Irvine.

It was New York's 12th straight game at home without a defeat and boosted sub goalie Gilles Villemure's record to 7-1-1.

Chicago extended its unbeaten home ice string to 13 games, edging Boston on Dennis Hull's second goal of the game early in the final period. The Black Hawks withstood Phil Esposito's hat trick and moved six points ahead of St. Louis in the West.

The contest was a rough one, with the main brawl late in the first period matching Chicago's Jim Pappin, Keith Magnuson and Dan Maloney against Boston's Don Awrey, Johnny McKenzie and Ted Green.

Pittsburgh scored three quick goals in the second period—two by Ken Schinkel—but Montreal rallied to tie the game midway through the third period when Pete Mahovlich drilled Yvan Cournoyer's rebound past Les Binkley.

Bill Goldsworthy ended a 16-game scoring drought early in the second period with the goal that enabled Minnesota to shade California. A bench-clearing brawl broke out with minutes left when Minnesota's Tom Reid and California's Tony Featherstone started to fight. Goldsworthy and Dennis Hextall of the Seals were ejected.

Maroons Wallop Jay, 94-60

KINGSTON

It was a little easier this time for Kingston High School.

Coming off a thrilling two point win, the Maroon hoopsters took their second straight of the season by whipping John Jay, 94-60, in a non-league affair Wednesday night in Kate Walton Field House.

"It was a real team victory," said Cocah Mike Rienzo, "everybody worked hard."

A balanced attack paved the way for the KHS victory. Four players hit double figures as Kingston used a pressing defense to get the ball for a fast breaking offense.

The game was tight for the first eight minutes with the Maroons in front of their young opponents from across the river by just one point. But Kingston poured it on in the second quarter, outscoring Jay, 27-9, and taking a 45-26 halftime lead. By the end of the third quarter it was 75-38.

"Everything we threw up went in," Rienzo, who put in all of his subs in the final stanza, said.

Tony Adams led the local barrage with 17 followed by Vino Platts with 16, Herman Simon with 14 and John Tomason with 12.

Simon, considered one of the hottest prospects at Kingston High in recent seasons, did not play in the opener against Our Lady of Lourdes. Newburgh scouts in the crowd Wednesday night, however, described him as "fantastic."

The scoring balance in the new Maroon edition was evidenced by the fact that 12 of the 13 players used by Coach Rienzo crashed the scoring column. Ron Burris (8) and Chuck Johnson (9) just missed double figures.

The overwhelming victory by Kingston is certain to catapult the Maroons into the Hudson valley spotlight. But Newburgh Free Academy, with an all-veteran team, is still the No. 1 team in the area.

The JVs made it two in a row also with a 57-47 win over the little Jays. Tom Turco tallied 20 for the home team.

Kingston looks to extend its winning streak when Poughkeepsie comes to the Field House on Tuesday.

BUFFALO

Three members of the New Paltz State booters have been selected to the 1970 State University Athletic Conference All-Conference team. They are bob Hippy, Elliott Pobbi-Asare, and Guy Cassarini.

Brockport State and Buffalo State dominated the squad which was selected by the league's coaches by placing five men each on its roster. Among them was Randy Smith of Buffalo who, along with Hippy, was chosen for the third year.

Hippy, a native of Indonesia, was pinpointed as a lineman by the coaches but has played equally as much in Coach Bob Durkin's backfield. The diminutive star has hit the net eight times this season.

Pobbi-Asare was named to the team for the first time in this his first varsity season. He has been the top scorer for the Hawks all year currently boasting 17 goals and seven assists.

Cassarini, co-captain with Hippy, was chosen for the second time in as many tries. The transfer from Orange County Community College has played several positions but has been primarily a fullback. On the season he has six assists.

Selected from Brockport were: Dan Hickey, line; John Moore, line; Gary Barone, back; Alain Maca, back; Doug May, back.

Oswego: Dick Ames, line.

Plattsburgh: Bryan Bush, back.

Potsdam: Willie MacDonald, line.

OSU Routs Hawks

ONEONTA

New Paltz State Coach Si Pesavento had reason to be happy prior to his team's debut here Wednesday night and he wasn't that unhappy afterwards even though the Hawks were trounced by Oneonta State, 97-69.

Pesavento, in his first year as head man of the State U. varsity, was able to utilize the services of center Steve Dane when the College's Dean . . . Jordan Churchill agreed that the rule that would have sidelined the 6'8" player was antiquated. Dane was to have sat out the first part of the season because of academic ineligibility but under the new New Paltz policy, his 1.93 average became acceptable. Prior to yesterday a varsity athlete had to carry a 2.00 "cum," now it's 1.75.

The other good news for New Paltz was that senior guard Glenn Kirsch played most of the game. He was expected to be out with a sprained ankle.

Despite all this New Paltz was beaten by a fine, young Oneonta team, but Pesavento found cause to be pleased.

"Our kids played real good ball for the first 17 minutes of the first half," he said.

The Hawks were trailing Oneonta by five with three minutes to go in the half when they hit a cold spell and the home side became red hot. By the time the dust cleared New Paltz was down 41-22.

"We stayed with them, but when we started to miss, we lost our poise," the first year coach said. The cold shooting was reflected in such stats as Bruce Dreutzer, 3-17 from the field; Don Valdez, 5-14; Kirsch, 0-7; and Dan Rogers, 2-11.

One Hawk who was on target was soph guard Earl Ingram. Inserted early in the first quarter, Ingram, high scorer for the freshmen last year, hit six field goals and added six free throws to lead New Paltz with 18 points.

Valdez had 15 in his first game in the orange and blue and Kreuzter added 11.

Oneonta, a team capable of making quite a lot of noise in the State University Conference was topped by Mike Green with 22. An unexpected development was that Jim Roberts, who figures to be a big gun for the Dragons, was held to eight points by the defensive work of Rogers.

New Paltz had one injury, Oscar Kvelland, a senior forward, aggravated a sore back.

The Hawks, hoping to improve on a 4-21 record of last year, travel to New York City on Saturday to take on Cathedral College. New Paltz is in the midst of a five game road trip, a rough way to start off any season. Their first home game is scheduled for Dec. 15 against Westfield State.

SU Grapplers Score Wrestling Shutout

BRONX

New Paltz State grapplers opened the season with a 42-0 walloping of Lehman College Tuesday in the Bronx. The Hawk matmen were packed by three freshmen, Bob Frazier, Frank Ford and Paul Seltzer. New Paltz again takes the mats Wednesday, Dec. 9th at Seton Hall.

Saturday's match with Adlephi has been postponed until February 6th.

Steve L. Turco scored the first pin for the winners in the 134 lb. class as he pinned Gene D'Avanzo at 2:18 with a cradle hold. Seltzer gained the second pin for the Hawks in the 150 lb. division, working Hosshang Rajabzadeh into a crucifix position at three minutes.

In the 167 lb. class Dave Premor pinned Luis Rodriquez at 3:30 with a half-nelson.

"I thought the boys did real well, particularly the freshmen," said Hawk Mentor Jim Valentine. "This was a big win for us. It's nice to start off that way," he said.

The results:

Celtics' Recovery Matter of Record

By United Press International

The Boston Celbics may have rebuilt a lot quicker than most people expected.

The Celtics, who finished out of the National Basketball Association playoffs last season for the first time in over a decade, went heavily to youth this season in an effort to rebuild their collapsed dynasty.

Boston seems to have put together a firm foundation. The Celtics capitalized on free throws in the last 10 seconds by John Havlicek and Don Chaney to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 114-111 for their sixth consecutive victory. The triumph left the Celtics with a 15-10 mark this season in second place in the NBA East, four games behind New York.

Other Games

In the only other NBA action Wednesday night, Detroit romped past New York 101-82, Phoenix ripped Atlanta 126-102 and Seattle downed Cincinnati 119-111.

Boston led 111-109 when Havlicek was intentionally fouled and converted a free throw. Jerry West's basket cut the Celtics' lead to 112-111 and Chaney tossed in a pair of foul shots after being fouled with three seconds remaining.

Havlicek had 26 points to lead Boston and rookie Dave Cowens had 24. Wilt Chamberlain's 29 points were high for Los Angeles.

Knicks' Power Quelled

Dave Bing scored 29 points and Detroit's defense limited the Knicks to their lowest output of the season in the Pistons' victory over New York. Jimmy Walker had 22 points for the Pistons, who snapped a six-game New York winning streak.

Connie Hawkins scored his season high 32 points to pace Phoenix over the Hawks. Clem Haskins had 23 points and Dick Van Arsdale 21 for the Suns while Lou Hudson's 19 were tops for the Hawks.

Don Kojis scored 30 points as Seattle overcame a 25-point Cincinnati lead to beat the halftime before Kojis sparked a Royals. The Royals led 66-41 at 40-point third quarter that rallied the SuperSonics.

Murphy Hits 15 In Siena Win

POTSDAM

Sophomore Fred Shear and Andy Murphy, former Kingston High School star cager, combined for 38 points as Siena trounced hapless Clarkson, 100-74 at Potsdam last night. The game was the season opener for both schools.

Shear fired in 23 points while Murphy bombed for 15. The Indians also got good scoring from Tom Welch—13, T. J. Sheridan—11 and Rich Kodish—10.

The Indians never trailed and maintained a 37-26 halftime bulge. Midway through the second half, Siena controlled a 75-50 advantage to cruise to the century mark as Coach Gene Culhan emptied his bench.

The only Clarkson cager to hit with any consistency was Pete Ganley, who scored 26, 14 in the second half.

The box score:

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoist The Flag, a son of Tom Rolfe the 1965 3-year-old champion, was named the 2-year-old champion colt of 1970 by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' Board of Selection today. Forward Gal was selected as the 2-year-old champion filly.

Siena and Potsdam A Basketball First

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The world will not long remember that Potsdam State beat Siena in college basketball 98-81 Wednesday night.

It's what happened before the game even started at Potsdam, N.Y. that may well be a basketball first.

An official detected a Potsdam player dunking shots in the pre-game warmup and called a technical foul which Siena missed before the game started.

The official said a new NCAA rule forbids dunking shots even during pre-game practice.

(Andy Murphy of Kingston scored two points on one basket for the Siena team).

Marquette and Pennsylvania, two teams expected to be national powers, opened with impressive victories. So did Georgia Tech, Fordham and Temple.

Marquette, sixth-ranked nationally in the pre-season Associated Press poll, crushed St. John's of Minnesota 87-58. Dean "The Dream" Meminger and Gary Brell led the Warriors to their home court triumph.

Meminger directed the Marquette offense and scored 19 points. Brell was high with 21 points.

Penn, No. 11 in the AP poll, rolled over Rutgers 85-71 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. Bob Morse led the Quakers with 27 points. Lee Tress led Temple over Navy 64-57 in the opener with 21 points. The Owls held off a late Middie rally led by Jack Conrad with 27 points.

Rich Yunkus threw in 30 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead Georgia Tech over Southern Methodist 91-77 at Atlanta. Charley Yelverton's 27 points paced Fordham over Yale 74-56 in New York. It made Dick Phelps' coaching debut at Fordham a successful one.

Utah State, 12th-ranked nationally, fell before West Texas 81-78 in an upset at Logan, Utah. Ray Golson, a 6-foot-7 junior, sparked West Texas with 30 points and 11 rebounds.

St. Bonaventure, No. 20 and the only other team in the AP poll, to see action enjoyed a 104-73 romp over Detroit College at Olean, N.Y.

UCAL Basketball Openers Set Friday

KINGSTON

With vivid memories of the 1970 Ulster County Athletic League football race stored in the filing cabinets of the mind, area UCAL fans brace themselves for the opening of the basketball season. And, if the gridiron battles were any foreshadowing of things to come, hoop buffs throughout the county are in for quite a treat.

Although most of the UCAL teams played non-league openers Tuesday, the official league opener for the 1970 season is slated Friday and six squads will be looking to get out of the starting blocks in fine style.

Rondout Valley, defending champion of the UCAL, is idle until Dec. 8 when the Ganders take on the Huguenots at the Stone Ridge court. The Ganders lost Pete Koola and Larry Baney, but have come up with Bill Joyner, who tallied 32 points in a winning effort against Saugerties Tuesday. And, area wags seem to feel that the 6-1 transfer student may make the fans forget "Pistol Pete" before the season is half over.

Marlboro faces Onteora in a league encounter at Boiceville. Both schools started the season with victories. The Dukes handled visiting Red Hook with ease. But, the Indians needed an outstanding performance in the fourth quarter from Dan Smith to defeat visiting Margaretville.

Onteora Coach Ron Pape is a low-key operator who never lets emotion get in his coaching way. Pape is content to let everyone else talk about how they are going to blow the opposition off the court. However, indications are that opponents venturing into Indians wig-wam are going to find little in the way of peace offerings. Pape may seem to be offering the peace pipe on the surface; but, Indian fans know that it may be as loaded as Ed Wynn's exploding cigars.

Both the Dukes and Onteora rate as having better than even chances to wrestle the crown from the Ganders.

Highland Coach Dick Becker takes his charges to Wallkill in another UCAL battle. The Highlanders are paced by the Monroe brothers, Perry and Ron. Football fans will remember those two boys as being the driving force in the Highlanders' grid triumphs. And, while Wallkill has its strongest team in many-a-moon, they won't have enough to cope with the visitors.

Should Highland make it two in a row by winning the UCAL hoop crown, there may be an underground movement started to rename the town "Monroeville," or; "Perry and Ron's Place."

Pine Bush moves into New Paltz for a pivotal game against Coach Frank Davis' fine quintet. The game is important because both teams seem to be unknown quantities. New Paltz has a veteran outfit, headed by Harold Anderson, Jay Ackert and John Palonis. However, the Huguenots dropped the non-league opener to Ellenville and must get untracked in this one if they are to be rated serious contenders.

"The lid was really on the hoop for us in the first tilt," said Davis after the game. "I hope we had our bad one and will come back. The boys have really been working. We did everything to win but score. And, that's the name of the game," he concluded.

In non-league action, John A. Coleman hosts Ellenville. The Blue Devils blew New Paltz off the floor with a hot 76 per cent from the field and a 19-for-25 performance off the foul line. Alfie Able leads the Ellenville scorers while John Geuss and Don Hastings do it all for Coach Bill DuBois and the Statesmen.

Saugerties, coming off a hard loss to the Ganders, open the Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section with an away game against the Bulldogs of Beacon. Beacon, once the proud terror of the DCSL, has fallen on leaner days. But, if the Sawyers are looking for a breather, they won't get it on the Bulldog court.

In other games, Pawling is at Red Hook and Rhinebeck travels to Pine Plains in the DCSL Bi-Valley league.

Junior varsity games begin at 7 p.m. with the varsity contests following immediately after.

Nordic Club Cites Stegen-Liekoski

ROSENDALE

Arthur Stegen of New Paltz and Kari Liekoski of Rosendale were honored by the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club during the Rip Van Winkle Ski Council dinner here.

Pfc. Stegen entered the Army in September, completed basic training at Fort Dix and, in recognition of his athletic skills, was assigned to Fort Richardson at Anchorage, Alaska, for advanced training by the U.S. Army Modern Winter Biathlon Training Center.

Sp/4 Liekoski, recently separated from the Army, was at the Biathlon Training Center in Alaska for two years. While stationed there, he became one of the elite biathlon competitors who entered the international competition at Ostersund, Sweden, in the World Biathlon Championships last March.

Biathlon combines a 20 kilometer cross-country ski race with four bouts at a target range and is considered one of the most gurelling of endurance sports.

Stegen, 24, is the son of Arthur and Anna Stegen of New Paltz and is married to the former Susan Humphrey of Highland. After graduating from New Paltz High in 1964, he attended Orange County Community College and Morehead State College of Morehead, Kentucky.

He was the Metropolitan AAU cross country foot race champion in 1969. Stegen is a 4:10 miler and has competed in the Boston Marathon four times, turning his best time of 2 hours, 49 minutes in this year's event. He is a member of the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club cross country team and received his initial training and coaching in cross country skiing from Edward (Gus) Williams, Rosendale's Olympic Biathlon skier.

Liekoski, also a member of the Rosendale Nordics, was graduated from Rondout Valley Central High in 1964 and attended the University of Arizona for one year before entering the Army.

His superior cross country skiing ability earned him a place at the Army Biathlon Training Center in Alaska. He is married to the former Teresa McCormick of New Paltz and is now studying at the University of Wisconsin on a ski scholarship.

Saehloff-Papillo On Wesley Varsity

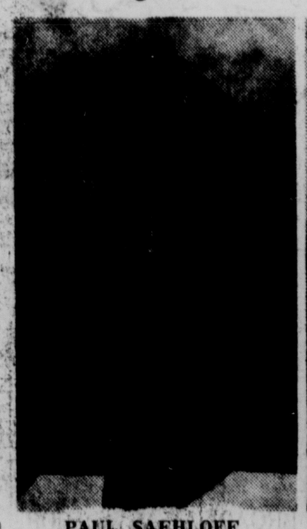

DOVER, Delaware — Two Kingston High School graduates —Paul Raymond Saehloff and Joseph Papillo have completed their season with the Wesley College football team.

The Wesley Wolverines, ranked eighth among the nation's junior colleges this season. On Thanksgiving Day, Wesley defeated Hutchinson Junior College of Kansas, the ninth ranked team in the country.

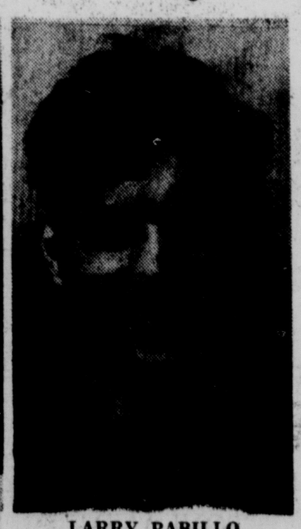

Wesley's only loss this season was to Nassau Junior College in Long Island, 22-15. Chowan Junior College from North Carolina battled Wesley on Nov. 7 to decide the Coastal Conference crown, Wesley winning, 37 to 17.

Papillo played a tackle, a position, he was named to on The Daily Freeman (Kingston, N. Y.) All-DUSO team in 1969. He received honorable mention on the Coaches All-DUSO.

Saehloff scored a double — landing on both the coaches and Freeman's first all-star team as an end.

PAUL SAEHLOFF

LARRY PABILLO

Saehloff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Saehloff of 43 Orchard Street, Kingston. Papillo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Papillo of 90 Lucas Avenue, Kingston.

SAA Winter Schedule Gets Under Way Monday

SAUGERTIES

The fall program of the Saugerties Athletic Association concludes tonight as Jerry Hawkins' Raiders face Michael's Barber Shop in a playoff for the touch football crown. Both teams finished with 9-1 records.

The S.A.A. winter program begins Monday as the 12-team Half-Court Basketball League gets underway. The teams will play on a Monday-Friday basis until mid-February when the 26-team Spring Half Court League begins.

Saturday afternoon marks the beginning of the full-court basketball league with entries expanded from four to six teams. The 15-game schedule and playoffs will run until mid-April.

Wednesday is marked for "Girls Night Out" and on that evening the eight-team women's volley ball league will start play. The women's basketball circuit is slated to start in mid-February. Athletes and those who are so inclined, having reached the magic age of 36 and older will have a Thursday night sports program. Basketball and table tennis will be the mainstays of this program, but is may be expanded according to interest.

The S.A.A. has involved over 4,000 individuals during its' 31 months existence, drawing from all age groups and both sexes. The only finance it receives comes from the Summer Basketball League. However, cooperation from the Town, Village and School Systems, by providing facilities free-of-charge, have made this self-supporting organization possible.

Through the efforts of the Saugerties Athletic Association, the Village of Saugerties has become known as the one which does most for its population in sports promotion on a per capita basis.

The varied programs of the S.A.A., in addition to being beamed to hundreds in all age groups, are annually conceived and handled by skilled and dedicated workers. It is easily one of the finest organizations of its kind in the whole state.

NOTICE OF PRESENTATION OF PETITION

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE, that a petition has been made by the Ulster County Legislature dated November 16, 1970, and duly verified November 16, 1970, praying that it may be adjudged that the public use requires the condemnation of the real property hereinafter described and that the plaintiff is entitled to take and hold said property for the public use and that three Commissioners of Appraisal be used by this Court to ascertain and determine the compensation to be made to the owners of said land to be so acquired; and that such petition will be presented at a Special Term of the Supreme Court of the County of Uster to be held at the County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, New York, on the 4th day of December, 1970, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard; and that application will then and there be made for the relief demanded in said petition

The following is a description of the parcels of land to be acquired in this proceeding and as described in said petition, to wit:

ALL THOSE PARCELS OF LAND situate in the Town of Ulster, County of Ulster, State of New York, needed for the re-construction of County Bridge #152, known as Leggs Mills Bridge, which parcels are severally shown on certain maps filed with the Petition in this proceeding in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster and respectively numbered upon said maps and bounded and described as follows:

PARCEL NO. 1, shown on Map No. 3, Parcel #5 and Parcel #6, bounded and described as follows:

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.15 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 3-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Love Overpowers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN.
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and have a sister who is 30. It is the custom in our family that the younger sister does not marry until the older sister has married.

I met a wonderful young man and he's asked me to marry him. As you have probably guessed by now, I want to announce my engagement and start making plans for my wedding.

My sister doesn't have anyone special in sight right now which doesn't seem to bother her. She is intelligent and holds down a well-paid position but she is rather plain.

What should I do? I don't want to upset my old world parents.

WANTS TO WED

DEAR WANTS: I don't want to upset your "old world parents" either, but if you are asking me what I would do, I'd marry the man and ask him if he knows someone who would like to meet an intelligent, but rather plain 30-year-old woman.

DEAR ABBY: I cannot forget the letter from that horrible daughter signed "Uncertain" who wanted to hasten her mother's death. It was bad enough that the poor old woman was dying of an incurable disease, without having a miserable daughter who wanted to put her out of her misery.

For eight months I nursed my mother who was full of cancer. She has been dead for nearly a year now and I still cry every day, wishing she were still here so I could have the pleasure of taking care of her. Oh, God, how I miss her!

How I envy "Uncertain" that she still has her mother to care fore And how I despise that selfish daughter for wanting to see her mother dead.

SHEDDING TEARS

DEAR SHEDDING: It seems more "selfish" to wish an incurably ill loved one prolonged suffering in order to provide you with the pleasure (?) of nursing her. I could better understand a prayer that the Good Lord either restore her good health or take her mercifully.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor with whom I have been very friendly for several years, however, I recently inherited a few thousand dollars and this has been causing me problems.

This neighbor gave me a list of things she wants me to give her for Christmas, and on the list she has a $299 sofa bed and a $150 China closet and a $40 handbag, which she's already got picked out! I sure can't go that high. I intended to give her a nice big box of homemade cookies and candies like I always did.

How can I keep this neighbor's friendship and my money, too?

NEIGHBOR LADY

DEAR LADY: You may not be able to. It's time your neighbor learned that there "ain't" no Santa Claus. So gently break the news to her, and if you lose her friendship, you haven't lost much.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO KNOW, BUT HATES TO LOOK STUPID": Ask anyway. There is no such thing as a "stupid" question if it's sincere. Better to ask and risk appearing "stupid" than to continue on your ignorant way and make a stupid mistake.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DOUBLE DEALER: (Q.) My mother works as a nurse and gives money to my father whenever he needs any. He stays with her because of the money, but I think he likes other women more than he likes her.

He gets her to visit relatives or friends. As soon as she leaves he calls up some other woman and goes to see her. He leaves me and my younger brothers and sisters at home alone, sometimes all night.

I have not told my mother because I do not want to hurt her and am also afraid our home will be broken up. Should I be quiet or tell her that he is lying to her?—Silent So Far in Maine.

(A.) Your mother may already know what is going on. Whether she does or not, it is not fair or safe to leave you and the other children alone when your father should be taking care of you.

Tell your mother about this part of it—the staying alone. If she asks you any other questions, answer them. But her only what you know is true, not something you may guess or suspect to be true. Then let her handle it from there.

HEART SHAPE: (Q.) I have a heart-shaped face, small eyes, and dark brown hair. I wear tortoise shell glasses shaped rectangularly. Is that the right shape for me? If not, what is?—13 in Connecticut.

(A.) Rectangles are your correct shape, and the tortoise shell should go well with your brown hair. The glasses frames, however, should be fairly large to fit your heart-shaped face. They have a big area to cover and small frames would not work well for you.

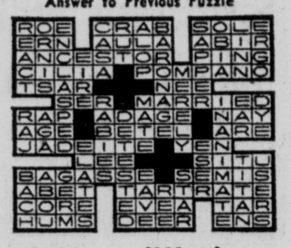

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Keep your attention focused on idealistic and mental matters today and tonight since whatever has to do with money and property seems to have considerable delays and obstacles connected with them. Patience is now a virtue that can save the day, so practice it and don't show others you are irritated. Be wise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are anxious to go ahead on financial affairs, but others are not very cooperative today. Postpone until a better time. Contact good friend who cheers you up. Plan and think, then all goes well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) This is not a good day to go after support you want for pet project you have. Prevail on other things for now. Civic matter does not jell today, either. Tomorrow is better for this. Show poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of fussing over annoyances, look into new activities that can help you to get ahead much faster. A new contact will give you the information you need now. Go after it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to keep the promises you have made to others instead of trying to avoid them as you are inclined to do. Although much is expected of you, it is only right. Get it done and improve reputation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen carefully to what associates say and then express your own ideas. Come to a point of cooperation that has been lacking for some time. Then everything improves.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) First plan method to complete work ahead of you, then do it and get it done efficiently. Improving health during spare time is fine. Try to get to bed at a good hour tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Going out for recreation is fine, provided you do not spend a great deal of money. Show devotion to mate. Make sure that you stand up for him, or her, in case of trouble. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget own affairs for awhile and see how you can help kin to achieve their aims. You must get at the source of tensions if you are really to eliminate them. However, avoid arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There is much work ahead of you so stop procrastinating. Start on them early and you have free time for other things later on. Don't get into a controversial subject with associates. Avoid arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to use good common sense in handling practical affairs, so get back to proven methods. Don't rely on a business person who does not comprehend your true position. Handle things yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Anything of a personal nature will meet with success today, so start such duties early. Once you have a sticky problem well handled, the future will brighter. Think big and you get big.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are blockages that require ridding yourself of them intelligently right now. Plan a more successful future. Try to assist those who look to you for help. Do so to the best of your ability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY.. he or she may have to solve many problems early in life, but these lessons will be beneficial upon reaching maturity. Your progeny will be a humanitarian and should be in a profession that gives service to others, such as in government work, the law, religion. A fine education is important here in order to do the greatest work throughout the lifetime. Do not neglect religious training, ethics, sports, early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

A Conservation Lesson, Too

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great charms of CBS's National Geographic series is that somehow they avoid looking and sounding like the conventional illustrated travel-talk. "Ethiopia: The Hidden Empire," which was the Wednesday night special, fell into the old trap.

Since that remote and absolute monarchy is really a place about which the average American knows little, this actually worked out as a plus. The African nation, ruled by the small but splendid Conquering Lion of Judah is a dramatic territory of vivid contrasts, heavy with history. A team of documentarians, obviously fascinated by the primitive people and the magnificent scenery, swung all around the country. They focused on craggy mountains, religious sects and colorful ceremonies, on the arid desert and its tribes. They even managed to toss in a conservation lesson by covering a crocodile hunt on a muddy river so that the emphasis was on the threatened extinction of the reptiles.

NBC's "Music Hall" turned out an hour in which three performers had an opportunity to discard their usual television images and romp around the stage. Robert Young, now thoroughly identified by his role of family doctor, bobbed up in a sort of musical comedy version of his old character in "Father Knows Best." Jane Wyatt once again was playing his wife in the semimusical. And as a big switch, the two Arnaz kids, Lucie and Desi, played their teenage off-spring.

Young seemed definitely uncomfortable tossing around the giddy lines and moaning lightly about the generation gap. Lucie and Desi, singing and dancing with considerably more aplomb than skill, showed that they really need the careful backstopping they receive back at homebase, a comedy series called "Here's Lucy."

The hour was a laudable effort to do something different in terms of comedy, music and sentiment. What with Young buckling into a serious dramatic reading and all, the assorted parts never were very well assembled.

ABC's Frank Reynolds' first big assignment after he winds up his anchorman's chores on the evening news at the end of the week, will be narrating a two-hour network special called "The American Adventure." The program, on Dec. 28, will attempt to examine our national values.

Harry Reasoner, recently hired away from CBS, takes over the Reynolds spot on the inner-hour news next Monday.

We can't get enthused about South's jump to six diamonds, but there was nothing wrong with the final contract. On the other hand, there was a lot wrong with his play and he managed to find a way to go down.

It wasn't too difficult for him. He simply played out a couple of trumps and then led a spade to dummy's queen. East plunked the king on the queen and led a spade right back. South finessed the 10, but East produced the jack and South had lost two tricks. This was bad luck. If West had held the spade King or East the spade jack, South would have made his contract.

Do you see what South should have done? He should have tried to set up dummy's hearts. That way, he might well have been able to discard two spades and make an overtrick. Let's see how things would have come out.

At trick two, South would ruff a heart with a high trump. Then he would lead a trump to dummy's nine. Both opponents would follow and South would be home free in spite of the 5-1 heart break. He would ruff another heart and enter dummy with the jack of trumps. Then a third heart ruff, followed by a club to dummy's ace. One more heart ruff would pick up West's last heart and leave one heart in dummy. South would get to dummy by ruffing his queen of clubs and he would be able to discard one of his spades, whereupon it wouldn't matter what happened in that suiti.

Strangely enough, this hand should really have been bid to seven. All that is needed is either a 4-2 heart break and a 2-1 trump break, or a 3-3 heart break and any trump break.

SST Heading Into Crucial Vote Amid Flak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supersonic transport is flying toward a crucial Senate vote amid the flak of critics who call it an environmental monster and a taxpayers' nightmare, and backers' claims it will preserve American dominance in world aviation.

The moment of decision for the embattled plane will come on an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to strike the $290 million earmarked to continue development on two SST prototypes from the $7 billion transportation appropriation for fiscal 1971.

In a flurry of last-minute action Wednesday, SST backers won points among undecided senators by passing separate legislation which meets some of the worries of critics head-on: the sonic boom and excessive airport noise.

But those critics added still another charge to the long list of potential environmental crimes they've chalked up against the federally subsidized project. They released a scientist's assertion the plane eventually may be responsible for causing 10,000 or more cases of skin cancer a year.

Responding to a similar scientifically based charge, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told the Senate:

"We have scientists and economists in this country who can be better prostitutes than some girls on Saturday nights.

"When you get rid of all the hogwash we've heard about this plane and get down to the honest-to-God facts it's a good aircraft," Goldwater declared.

The SST, first made a national project in the administration of President John F. Kennedy eight years ago, will be designed to carry up to 300 passengers at a speed of 1,800 miles an hour—2.7 times the speed of sound.

The two prototypes are being built primarily by the Boeing Aircraft Co. and General Electric who are investing $62.5 million and $28.4 million respectively, in the development program. The federal government is paying the rest of the estimated $1.14 billion development costs.

But critics such as Proxmire and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, label the agreement with Boeing and GE a "sweetheart contract," say it's unlikely the government will ever get its money back and voice fears the United States will be drawn into helping pay the costs of eventual commercial production.

But the SST's chief backers, Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, and Henry M. Jackson, both Washington Democrats, say that to scrap the project would be to deny the American ideal of progress and erode the nation's technological superiority. Boeing's home is in Seattle.

The Senate approved 77-0 a separate Magnuson-Jackson bill which would ban sonic-boom-producing flights over the 50 states and order a sharp reduction in SST ground noise.

President Nixon made a production of an American SST a goal of his Republican administration last year but a number of Republican senators say they'll vote against it.

Nixon on Europe Troops— Reduction Up to Soviets

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Nixon pledged today that the United States will not reduce its forces in Europe unless the Russians reduce theirs.

Nixon made his pledge in a statement read by Secretary of State William P. Rogers to the winter meeting of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We have agreed," Nixon said, "that NATO's conventional forces must not only be maintained, but in certain key areas, strengthened. Given a similar approach by our allies, the United States will maintain and improve its forces in Europe and will not reduce them unless there is reciprocal action from our adversaries."

U.S. officials said the pledge went beyond the middle of 1972, the previous time limit on such assurances, and was "open ended." It is likely to set off a protest among members of the U.S. congress who want to cut U.S. defense spending by bringing home a considerable number of the U.S. troops in Europe.

Last year U.S. officials gave American strength in NATO as 310,000 men. The current figure is 285,000. But American officials say they will not be tied down to specific manpower figures, only to a promise not to reduce fighting readiness.

Rogers asked the ministers of the other 14 nations to reaffirm their interest in mutual, balanced force reductions with the Soviets and their allies. The East should be urged, he said, to start exploratory talks next year.

The Soviet Bloc has proposed that talks about reductions of foreign troops take place at a general conference on European security. Rogers said exploratory talks might well come before a meeting.

He said it would be useful for NATO to make internal studies of just what it would like to achieve at such a conference, especially on matters not related to security. The Soviets say they want to talk about better economic relations, while the West is interested in more human contacts of all kinds.

Rogers and his colleagues began their semiannual review of problems and plans amid indications that they won't agree to the European security conference until the Communists ease their restrictions on West Berlin.

Rogers met at dinner Wednesday night with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany to discuss West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside Communist East Germany. They concluded that only a favorable outcome of the talks on Berlin which their ambassadors in Germany are holding with the Soviet ambassador can lead to the climate of detente needed for the kind of general conference on European security the Soviets seek.

The Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies held a one-day summit meeting in East Berlin Wednesday, but the communique issued at the end of the meeting gave no indication of any concessions to the West.

There was speculation that the East Berlin summit may have been held to force East German leader Walter Ulbricht into line on a Berlin settlement.

Ulbricht has resisted giving any concessions, and there were signs of a Soviet-East German clash of wills last month. Diplomats attending the NATO conference disclosed that in November the Soviets apparently accepted and then turned down a three-stage Western approach toward a Berlin settlement.

Informants said the Soviets apparently accepted the plan but 14 days later pulled back after East German newspapers attacked the idea of any compromise.

East Berlin Summit Over in a Hurry

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Bloc summit meeting in East Berlin lasted only one day and announced full agreement on all subjects discussed but gave no details. Meanwhile, the Western Big Three again protested the latest interference with West Berlin traffic.

The top leaders of the seven Warsaw Pact nations met Wednesday in East Berlin for the first time, apparently to bolster the prestige of Walter Ulbrichts East German regime.

A communique said unanimity was reached and documents would be released later on the topics discussed: "the strengthening of security and the development of peaceful cooperation in Europe, the sharpening of the situation in Indochina, the situation in the Near East, the aggression of the colonialists against the Republic of Guinea."

Ulbricht, who presided at the meeting, was thought to be angry because the recent Soviet and Polish pacts with West Germany did not include Bonn's explicit recognition of his regime. It was expected that the conference document on European security would demand recognition of East Germany as a sovereign state.

The 77-year-old Ulbricht seemed in good health despite unconfirmed reports that he suffered a heart attack last week.

As the meeting ended, the chiefs of the U.S., British and French missions in West Berlin delivered a note to the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin protesting East German harassment of traffic to and from West Berlin since Saturday.

It was the second such protest note this week to the Soviet Union by the highest allied diplomats in West Berlin. The allies said the traffic slowdown and other such actions heightening tension could only jeopardize the talks on Berlin which the U.S., Soviet, British and French ambassadors to Germany are holding intermittently. The next session is scheduled next week.

Western border officers reported that the slowdown on the access routes ended about the time the Communist summit ended.

ADN, the official East German news agency, reported that the allied protest "was rejected as unfounded. Attention of the representatives of the three Western powers was drawn to the fact that all consequences were the responsibility of those who had organized provocations in West Berlin."

The slowdown was in retaliation for a political meeting held in West Berlin early in the week by the West German Christian Democratic party

Papal Mass—100,000 Predicted

JAKARTA (AP) — Pope Paul VI landed in Jakarta today for a 16-hour visit, but the capital of mostly Moslem Indonesia turned out only small crowds at the airport and along his route through the city.

The crowd was expected to pick up tonight when the Pope celebrates Mass in a sports stadium. A throng of 100,000 was predicted.

An official welcoming party headed by President Sukarno and about 500 schoolgirls and air force cadets were at the airport to cheer the 73-year-old pontiff as he completed the seven-hour flight from Sydney, Australia.

Appearing rested and in good health on the sixth stop of his 25,000 mile trip, the Pope thanked Sukarno for his welcome and praised Indonesia as a land known for its religious tolerance.

The pontiff also used the occasion to call for world peace, saying that if politicians would put aside their political ambitions "there would be permanent peace."

Sukarno thanked the Pope for coming to Indonesia and said he was "greatly honored" by the papal visit. Then he took him over to meet the official welcoming party, which included high-ranking Indonesian officials, foreign diplomats and leaders of the country's 2.2 million Roman Catholics.

Tight security was in effect because of the assassination attempt on the Pope in Manila last week.

At Jakarta's Dutch-built, 69-year-old cathedral the pontiff met with 700 priests and nuns from the sprawling island nation.

He said in a brief sermon read in English: "We would not have satisfied our desire of meeting the great people of Asia if we had not included this stop at Jakarta."

Welcoming the Pope, the independent newspaper, Pedoman played down religious tensions between Catholics and Moslems in Indonesia, saying such frictions had been only minor. In the past two years, Moslem fanatics have burned Catholic and other Christian schools and churches in Jakarta and other areas.

The influential Moslem daily Harian Abadi welcomed the papal visit but with a warning that Catholic policies in Indonesia should be carried out "naturally" and not in the way in which "Vatican policies are seemingly identical with greedy expansionism as reflected by Western imperialism in developing countries."

The Pope flies to Hong Kong Friday, where he will celebrate Mass and probably make a major speech addressed to Chinese everywhere. Then he flies back to Rome, stopping en route for two hours in Ceylon.

Consumer Bill—Maneuver Only Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — A parliamentary maneuver of some sort apparently offers the last hope of producing any major consumer legislation in the 91st Congress.

But, in the wake of a crucial setback, supporters of a bill creating a federal consumer protection agency weren't even sure what sort of maneuvers might be available to them—a measure of how scant are their hopes.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., had warned before a House Rules Committee vote on the agency bill Wednesday that a defeat also would spell the end of his class-action bill and the major consumer legislation in Congress.

The committee's 7-7 vote blocked the legislation from coming to the House floor and spokesmen for Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., chief sponsor, said the action virtually kills the bill.

But Rosenthal, Government Operations Committee Chairman Chet Holifield, D-Calif., and the House Democratic leadership nevertheless began searching for a possible parliamentary move which could get the bill to the House floor in the few weeks remaining in this session.

The Senate passed similar legislation Tuesday.

"We are angered and distressed," said the Consumer Federation of America after the committee vote. "Apparently neither the administration nor the Rules Committee believes the consumer should be heard.

"History shows few consumer bills ever get passed unless the administration wants them passed."

Presidential assistant Virginia Knauer, who had been favoring a consumer protection division in the Justice Department instead of the independent one proposed by the House bill, had no comment.

Of the class-action, warranty and consumer-protection-agency bills before Congress, the protection-agency legislation was considered to have had the best chance of passing.

The Rosenthal forces were particularly disappointed at the tie vote because the only absent Rules Committee member—Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo.—had been considered a probable vote for the bill.

Bolling was vacationing in the French West Indies. Rosenthal's office said Bolling was contacted Tuesday night and offered a flight back for the vote, but declined.

Sweeping Portuguese Changes Are Proposed

LISBON (UPI) — Premier Marcello Caetano has proposed to Parliament the most sweeping constitutional changes in Portuguese history, including the granting of self-government for the nation's embattled African colonies.

The laws would also increase individual constitutional rights for the citizens of Portugal, who lived under a virtual dictatorship and police state under the 36-year regime of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

Even Caetano himself acknowledged the changes he seeks are "profound."

"I know for many people, impressed by intensive propaganda . . . the idea of autonomy for the overseas provinces is shocking," Caetano told Parliament Wednesday. "But there is no cause for this fear."

Caetano said racial segregation would be abolished in the colonies.

The legislation which Caetano proposed and which the Parliament seemed certain to pass was a huge stride in the administration's policy to turn Portugal into a modern, democratic nation. Caetano began the process almost as soon as he became premier in 1968 following a stroke suffered by Salazar, who died earlier this year.

The constitutional changes include the nation's first press law, which has the effect of abolishing censorship of news published in the country, although numerous restrictions remain.

Additional constitutional changes include the spelling out of the rights of individuals, expected to curtail the nearly unlimited powers Portuguese police have exercised for four decades. The proposal also would guarantee a citizen the right to profess and preach any religion, the right of parents to decide whether their children should receive religious education, and outlaw religious discrimination.

But perhaps the most radical of the changes were those pertaining to autonomy for such vast colonies as Angola on Africa's west coast, and Mozambique, on the continent's east coast. Liberation forces have fought Portuguese troops in both areas for years at a staggering cost to the mother country in both men and money.

Another Korean Defects to West

SEOUL (AP) — A North Korean MIG jet fighter landed today at an airfield in South Korea, and the North Korean pilot said he wanted to defect, the Defense Ministry announced.

The ministry said the pilot, Maj. Park Sung-koo, was guided to an airfield on the east coast after his plane was spotted on radar.

The ministry did not pinpoint the location of the airfield or specify the MIG model.

It was the third defection of a North Korean air force pilot since the Korean armistice was signed in September 1953.

PARKING GARAGE GETTING FINISHING TOUCHES

City Dream Becoming A Reality

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The uptown parking garage, for many years only a dream, and for several years mostly a controversy, is expected to be open for business, Friday, Dec. 4 at 9 a.m., according to James G. Connors, director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

The agency, builder of the 360-space, $700,000 parking structure with entrances on North Front Street at the head of Wall Street and on Clinton Avenue Ext., disclosed that the facility, although incomplete, will be serviceable. Yet to come are the elevator, rest room and office.

Records show that the original idea for a parking garage in the uptown area was proposed in 1957, seven years before the present urban renewal plan went into execution. There seemed no doubt that more parking was needed and that a parking garage in the congested uptown area, would be the best idea, but nothing came of those early plans.

Urban renewal came along with a vital ingredient, money, some $760,000 in state funds for the overall project, and serious planning began.

The site chosen, the old Montgomery Ward building on North Front Street, seemed amendable to most parties concerned, and its demolition was completed in a few weeks.

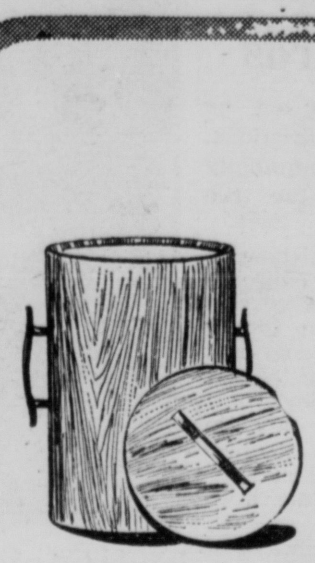

The agency drew up its own specifications for a 400-car structure and advertised for bids in May of last year. The bids came in over a million dollars above the $760,000 budgeted by the agency. Former Mayor Garraghan came out in strong opposition to the garage after that and asked the Common Council to rescind its authority to build it.

The agency tried another (ultimately) successful tact—so-called design-construct method. Under that procedure the agency simply told interested contractors what it needed and how much money it had to spend. In short, build a garage for the money.

Four bids were received starting with a low bid of $533,990 from a New York City firm and ending with the high bid of $934,000 from another New York City firm. Successful bidder was D. Fortunato of Floral Park, N.Y., who submitted a $700,000 bid for 340-car garage. Those bids were opened in November of last year.

Before construction could begin, Mayor Garraghan submitted a plan for temporary parking, at a cost of $65,000, on the site of the parking garage. That proposal was immediately rejected by the Uptown Businessmen's Association, prime movers for the garage plan. Construction began this spring.

It is expected that once the garage is completed it will be turned over to the city for operation.

Complete Shopping Service In Uptown Kingston Stores

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A complete shopper service awaits Ulster County holiday buyers in the Uptown Kingston area with many of them already aware of all the conveniences which make Christmas shopping a pleasure—such things as new parking facilities, including the new garage on North Front Street, longer store hours stretching to 9 p.m. and lay-away plans.

Tinsel, bows and glittering Christmas balls and wreaths have been gracing store windows and interiors for several weeks now and several new shops have opened their doors in time for the Christmas season.

The Uptown Businessmen's Association, vitally aware of shopper needs such as personal service, quality merchandise, a variety of stores and sensible prices, anticipate that these same drawing cards available again, will mean bigger and better sales this season.

Shopping has been reported brisk to date and has been especially evident since local banks sent out Christmas Club checks.

Members of the Uptown Businessmen's Association are already finding that new items on the market this year, especially in the area of fashions and some luxury gifts are inviting sales as well as the usual run of practical gifts such as appliances, and houshold items.

Lay-away plans are more popular than ever, with shoppers out early in the season, making their selections from full stocks and picking them up later.

In spite of the brisk business evidenced throughout the compact shopping area, many merchants feel that the first flakes of snow will stimulate even more holiday spirit and buying.

Churches Grace Greeting Cards

As jubilant bells ring out the good news of Christmas, churches of this community stand as symbols of the true spirit of the season.

Landmarks in the history of Christendom, these churches are the living center of current activities, especially at Christmas, when choral programs, pageants and other special services express holiday joy.

Across the country, and in other lands, soaring steeples and ringing bells beckon worshipers to "Come to Church on Christmas."

Small wonder, then, that churches are a favorite subject for Christmas greeting cards. This year, the 95th anniversary of Christmas cards in the United States, is no exception.

A look into the past shows three well - known churches which were favorite Christmas card features. The Little Church Around the Corner and Trinity Church, both in New York City, and Westminster Abbey in London are pictured on cards dated around 1925 and now in the Norcross historical collection.

The oldest of these church buildings is Westminster Abbey, a national shrine and the Mother Church of the Commonwealth of Great Britain.

Naming Santa

Santa Claus is a tradition — a pleasant one, indeed. And, traditionally, he owes his name to a gift-giver of the past.

St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop who became the patron saint of children, was noted for his generosity. Hs Dutch name was "Sinter Niklass," which gradually changed to Santa Claus.

Even today, Santa is also know as "St. Nick."

EXCITING COLLECTION AT THE JENNIFER SHOP

KINGSTON

It's called "PYT"—Put Yourself Together.

And, you can do it at the Jennifer Shop where fashion coordinates are not only enchanting but endless.

Skinny-knit sweaters in deep raspberry, teal or red and brown blend with copy-cat vests, sweater-knit slacks or skirts, all with that 'in' look.

Gals with their eyes and minds gravitating toward glamour duds for the holidays will find the pale blue satin jump suit with tapestry midi-vest a stunner and will surely love the sophisticated black and purple three-piece tapestry and crepe pants suit a conversation piece at any holiday party this season.

The Fredenbergs, Dick and Louis, who opened the shop a little over a year ago, says they sense the trend toward longer dress and skirt fashions and point to their coat and dress wool pattern and print ensembles which are attracting buyers, looking for something new.

Novelty gifts for the holidays include the David Smith rain-packer, the only raincoat that fits into its own pocket and stocking stuffers such as Italian imported eyeglass cases, cosmetic kits and wallets, some of which are fashioned in cut velvet while others are trimmed with it.

Traditional or mod, gift-giving sprees or holiday buying at the Jennifer Shop are simply simpatico.

Christmas Facts

Everybody thinks that space travel is something very new, but an elderly gentleman in a rather unique "space-suit" set the pace years ago. His name: Santa Claus.

Now is the season when he's taking off again, for it's Christmas.

How much do you know about Christmas and Santa Claus? Here are some questions, developed with the help of the editors of the Encyclopedia International, to test your knowledge.

The first known Christmas card was designed in 1843 by an Englishman named:

(A) Charles Dickens
(B) Sir Henry Cole
(C) John Calcott Horseley

The first Christian Nativity feast, celebrating the birth of Christ occurred in the fourth century on:

(A) January 6
(B) July 4
(C) December 25.

STEP INTO STYLE— Beatrice Weinberger of Ellenville likes the fit of the new high-style soft leather boot, one of many features at Rowe's Shoe Store in the Uptown Shopping area at the corner of John and Fair Streets. Salesman Harry Kirshen indicated that boots are "bigger than ever" this year due to fashion trends toward the midi which calls for dress boots. Even the midi wearers still find them an attractive necessity and Rowe's has stocked a large variety of leather and vinyl models for their customers to make selections for their own use or as gifts for this Christmas holiday season.

Pennsy Trees Fall Victim To Technology

FOMBELL, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania's Christmas tree growers have fallen victim to modern technology, the affluent society and the American drive for perfection.

Whereas in the 1950's there were more than 2,000 growers of Christmas trees, today there are an estimated 600 and of them only about a dozen try to use Christmas trees as their principal source of income.

Woodrow W. Dambach, who owns a nursery in the Northwest Pennsylvania town of Fombell and is executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association, said the main problem is that growers are selling the same number of trees they did 15 years ago rather than selling a larger number as a result of the increase in population.

One reason is the artificial Chrismtas tree, which many are buying for their long-lasting value and their sustaining good appearance and as a result of the merchandising techniques used to sell them.

Leland Bull, state secretary of agriculture, notes the artificial trees are "usually displayed in a beautiful setting in a warm department store ... (with) lighting effects."

Association Aids Growers

The growers association has not tried to fight the artificial trees but instead concentrates on aiding growers to produce the best trees possible.

The Christmas tree business is inherently risky financially as many professional men who went into it strictly for investment found out.

Bull said the physicians, dentists, architects and businessmen thought: "Here was a real bonanza, a mother lode, an untapped source of wealth. Here was an item that could be bought for two cents and planted on low-price land. You could sit back, do nothing, watch it grow and collect $3 for it a few years later."

But they learned there was more to it than that.

Trees need professional care and proper shearing before they will be bought by someone for their living room.

Dambach said this seemed even more true as people became richer and could afford to demand only a perfect tree.

Growers seldom cut more than 50 or 60 per cent of their marketable crop because of the need to take only perfect specimens.

Lack of Trained Help

Dambach said a lack of trained help also keeps the crop down.

He said shearing of the trees was almost an art.

Men Can Purchase Stylish Rainwear

NEW YORK (UPI)—The men's rainwear industry is recovering from its recent attack of doldrums thanks largely to the name designers and European imports. And now men can be stylish again when it is raining, with long midi lengths leading the way.

The general trend now is toward a much greater length and away from the thigh-length coats which weren't much good in a rainstorm. Some new coats strike the calf, a few reach to the ankles, many of the new models are just below the knee.

There are many new fabrics including vinyl, double knits, triple knits, canvas, linen, cotton herringbones. And instead of the drab blacks and oyster whites there are orange, expresso brown, mink, chamois and burnt olive.

There also are a few rain suits around. Larry Kane, who designs Raffles Wear, has one which is a tailored coat and pants in a special fabric treated so rain drips off it. The coat is a regular suit coat, shaped, two button, with military flapped pockets that are pleated. Rainover does an out and out rainsuit it is a dacron-cotton twill with a jazzed up Eisenhower jacket and pants with a button through fly.

Windbreakers Longer

Most Van Heusen Windbreaker coats run to 40-44 inches long (40 is about kneecap length) and the more avante garde run to 46 inches which is maxi length. The new ones are double breasted, six to eight buttons with fashion detailing such as oversized patch pockets, full belts, military collars, decorative stitching.

Bill Blass' latest rainwear creation is a safari raincoast with four big flap pockets in fine Italian gabardine, belted and mid-calf length. It is single breasted and has four buttons. Other Blass raincoats also are at this length.

Hardy Amies, who is English, brings in the Scotland Yard look with a double breasted trenchcoat in cotton poplin in taupe or blue with a fancy Hardy Amies signature lining that probably costs as much as the outside. It is mid-calf, belted, with a military collar and straps on the sleeves.

Rafael goes to a 51-inch length for spring in an unlined, brushed denim coat with military brass buttons, four patch pockets, a military shirt collar and grommets under the armholes. For wear in cooler fall-winter weather there is an oatmeal linen tweed laminated to clear plastic and cut safari style with a fake fur collar.

Pierre Cardin's newest is in a military style reminiscent of a German officer coat with a dozen buttons up the double-breasted front an a high collar. It is in beige herringbone cotton, very fitted, with an all around belt and two big patch flapped pockts.

Lauren Uses Canvas

Ralph Lauren uses tan canvas for his No. 1 raincoat in a military look, just below the knee. It has big patch pockets which are flapped and pleated, a wrap around belt, a very high vent in the back which is buttoned so it can open at any length and there is a pocket for some reason or other near the top of the left sleeve.

Carlo Palazzi uses the midi length, which is longer than midcalf, in a long, slender twill coat that is fitted to the body—very slender as if it were a suit. There is a very long vent in the back, buttoned all the way, and a fairly large collar with slanted pockets. He also has an almost full length water repellant loden coat in navy, dark, dark brown and very dark green.

Costa de Majorca sticks to its tried and true fine cotton coats with button flaps on the pockets and decorative stitching. New here is an oyster white long tubular, six button double breasted with a half belt in the back and an extremely deep center vent. There are button up "shoplifters pockets" inside.

Harbor Master, which makes the John Weitz "Caravelle" travel raincoat, has a new coat called the Roland which is a semi-shaped eight button double breasted twill with a zipout lining, kneecap length, a laydown military collar that is very wide, trimmed in a leatherette.

Holiday Tradition: Yule Card Sending

NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas card sending has become one of America's most important holiday traditions.

This year, the 94th anniversary of the American Christmas card, it is estimated that 50 million American families will send their friends and loved ones more than two-and-a-half billion Christmas cards.

Christmas 1970 designs and illustrations will be more colorful than ever, reports the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, whose members account for over 80 per cent of the all Christmas cards produced. Not only are the designs and illustrations more exciting and unusual, the association said, but many of the cards are produced on a wide range of colorful papers, including sparkling foils and other special materials.

Industry spokesmen agree that the most popular designs are still the traditional ones — Santas, Christmas trees, holly, snow scenes, wreathes, Christmas bells and ornaments The spokesmen said, however, that more and more cards will feature religious themes and the subject of peace than in previous years.

The universal pleas for "Peace on Earth," they reported are expressed by illustrations of numerous peace motifs such as the dove, the angel of peace, the lion and the lamb, children of different races, the olive branch, praying hands, and the peace symbol.

The words "Peace," Love," "Hope," "Shalom" and "Brotherhood" are used interchangeably in many of the illustrations and in the greetings on the peace yule cards.

Man's first moon landing is presented in one design. It bears the message "We came in peace for all mankind." The illustration shows the American flag planted on the moon's surface, the planet earth in the distance and the Christmas star shining over all.

The most popular religious design will probably be the Madonna, but the Three Wise Men, the Christ Child, the holy family, the angels and the shepherds, the Nativity Scene and the star in the East will still be favorites.

The modern approach toward the holy season is expressed in designs showing churchgoers attending Christmas services, surpliced choirs singing joyous hymns, colorful stained glass windows, children caroling, church bells and lighted candles.

So, whatever you want your Christmas greeting to say, something reverent, something cheerful or something sentimental, there will be a new, exciting and almost endless variety to meet the demand.

PENNEYS PRETTIES UP—Hanging the holly and other holiday decorations at J. C. Penney Company, 318 Wall Street, is Mrs. Lynn Van Winkle who is catalog supervisor and household items such as linens, towels, blankets and Open every night till 9 p.m., the store for Mon, Dad and the children features its usual huge stock of wearing apparel fabrics. Glen Stampfle, J. C. Penney manager, lauds uptown Kingston as a good place to make purchases and points out that Christmas shoppers can be seen carrying their gift lists from store to store.

Check Up on Camera for Yule

NEW YORK (UPI) —Nothing mars Christmas joy like a camera that doesn't work. Dead batteries, the wrong kind of film, an insufficient supply of flash cubes and even dirt on a lens puts the yule spirit on the skids.

So pretty soon, even before the youngsters mention Santa, make sure youe your camera and gear are in tip-top condition.

The readymade scenes begin to unfold when you hear the youngsters talking about their wishes or scribbling notes to Santa.

You'll get natural-looking pictures if you shoot the events as they happen in the days leading up to Christmas. Shopping trips, selecting and trimming a tree, delivering gifts and decorating the house all are part of the merry mood.

To Catch Action

To catch all the merriment in action, use a movie camera that loads instantly. With the new easy-to-use models, such as Kodak's Instamatic movie cameras, you can drop in a cartridge of film and be ready at once.

When taking movies during the day, natural lighting usually will provide ample illumination. For indoor shots, attach a movie light to camera.

Shooting from different angles and varying the scene length will add interest to your home movie. Try standing on a chair to get an overall view or stooping low to focus on a child. sBe ready to shoot lots of closeups when the yungsters first see their new toys, mom tries on her long-awaited fur and dad unwraps his fishing rod. Remember that your usjbect is most important, so dominate.

Carving the turkey or unwrapping gifts are ideal movie-mking subjects that show an entire event. Movies catch all the action, so just hold your camera steady and let your stars move about. All the action will be captured on film.

Add Titles for Fun

Adding titles is fun, and they identify times and events. Wrapping ribbon, evergreen branches and greeting cards make effective holiday titles.

If you want to add a touch of Christmas magic, you can try a simple film trick that makes the tree appear to lecorate itself. For this the camera needs to be supported by a

Dad may want to play the magician. Begin by showing him resting in his easy chair. Then ask him to wave his hand as if to perform a magic trick.

The magic beginswhen you film the bare tree. With the camera mounted on a tripodn shoot all scenes from the same angle, making sure everyone is out of camera range.

Give the Yule Cheer That Slims

NEW YORK (UPI) —If there's someone in your circle who doesn't need padding to pose as Santa Claus, give the Christmas cheer that slims.

First, there's the Christmas stocking. Stuff it with packages of sugar substitutes. Also try the low calorie grapefruits.

The goodies under the tree should carry and equally slimming message. Just remember to wrap whatever you select in back issues of "Weight Watchers" magazine.

Low calorie foods are ideal. Instead of the outsize box of chocolates you give every year, tie a red ribbon or better still a measuring tape around an assortment of melba toast, instant diet drinks, bouillon cubes, a basekt of cucumbers (cucumber sandwiches make great late day low-cal Christmas snacks), or even cottage cheese, if delivered on Christmas day.

Another food idea offered by one New York store is a yogurt marker. There are about 120 calories in a cup of yogurt, and this machine whips up one and one-half quarts in less time than it takes to make a batch of brownies.

Diet books also are to be considered, but give several. A collection will give the overweight an opportunity to select the one that best suits him. By New Year's of next year, he'll be able to resolve to go on either the apple, avocado, banana, buttermilk, cereal, cheese, date, doughnuts, ad infinitum diet.

ESTHER RAFFERTY GETS MONEY FROM EVELYN CARR

State of N.Y. Bank Yule Club Grows

About $498,196 dollars in Christmas checks from the State of New York National Bank's Kingston offices has been circulating in the local marketplace during the past several days.

Stanley Petro, assistant cashier at the uptown office reported 3,464 clubs were completed in 1970 and if past indications prevail, the number will increase substantially next year.

Christmas Club checks are a boon to the merchants who find that holiday sales pick up immediately after they are distributed, usually around mid-November.

With the bank now paying 4½ per cent interest on the completed clubs, the bank-once-a-week plan is gaining even more momentum. For instance, those saving $20 a week earn interest amounting to $22.50. Those who deposit $10 receive $11.25 in interest while a $5 depositor gleans an extra $5.62. Even the smallest club which requires a 50-cent deposit weekly, realizes 56 cents in interest.

Christmas Clubs for 1971 are already in progress but those interested may still have the opportunity to join, according to Petro.

State of New York National Bank has additional clubs operating in New Paltz and Poughkeepsie offices, as well as those in the Kingston city area.

HOW ABOUT THIS ONE MOM?—Young Todd Brannon, 4½, left, tries on a new hat with furry ear flaps which his little brother Kirk Brannon, 3, picked out at London's Youth Center at 33 North Front Street. The children and their mom, Mrs. Robert P. Brannon of Woodstock, were out Christmas shopping and took in all three of the stores sections including the Varsity Shop and the Department Store which features merchandise to suit many tastes.

ADDING FESTIVE TOUCH- Mrs. Rose Fayo, proprietor of the Rose Shop, 33½ Wall Street, adds some finishing touches to an inside window display in her shop. Known for having the largest line of women's handkerchiefs in town, including lines and prints, the shop also boasts exquisite lingerie, hosiery, costume jewelry, including novelty pearl belts, gloves and famous name foundation garments. Gift wrapping and lay-away services are available.

'Natural' Look in Evidence For Yallum's Christmas Shoppers

KINGSTON — The "natural" look is in this year according to Bob Yallum of Yallum's, 317 Wall Street which caters to the "under 30 group" although any Ulster County gentleman can be fitted in anything from socks to sports jackets and dress suits.

Early Christmas shoppers have indicated they like the bell and flared bottom pants that were only beginning to make the scene a year ago. So far this year young buyers lean toward them as well as any clothes that have the "worn" look.

"They call it funky," Yallum commented, adding that whether the adult population likes it or not, youths are finding and setting fashion and as a consequence, adults are following and finding it reasonable.

For the real mod look, Yallum's also features such things as purple pants and Ecuadorian vests as well as a variety of furs which can be found in coats, on collars and as trimming for vests.

Even young women art attracted to the mainly men's shop. Such things as fringed jackets, six food scarves, sweaters and jeans are the drawing cards for both boys and girls.

The Edwardian look is prevelent in many of the fashions and has recently been attracting a number of young professional men in the community. Shoes too draw the shoppers to Yallum's special footwear department which features all kinds of walking gear from square-heeled, squared-toe shoes for gals to boots to suit everyone from hunter to fashion plate.

In addition to the Yallum family, many members of which greet holiday shoppers each year, the store employs a number of knowledgeable and fashion-minded young men to help customers make selection.

About Wise Men

Except for the words of St. Matthew, legend accounts for the little that is known about the wise men. One of the legends says that the star appeared to them once more, near the end of their lives.

GLAMOUR FOR THE HOLIDAYS—Mrs. Sylvia Leventhal, proprietor of Leventhal Furs and Fashions, 28 Wall Street, models one of many exciting "at home" fashions which make such a hit with the fair sex at holiday time. At the same time she shows a full-length nightie of pale pink with shirred waist, sure to please any gal from 18 to 80. Holiday gowns and furs are also featured as are accessories to please the most discriminating taste.

FOR A COLORFUL CHRISTMAS—A set of paints and brushes or perhaps an easel or book on "How to Paint" makes an excellent holiday gift for that person who has "everything", according to Henry Breitenbach, manager of Shults Paint Stores, one of which is located at 37 N. Front Street. The art department at the store also features such things as pastels, "glitter" for holiday decorations and canvas and placards for painting. Breitenbach said Christmas business started early this year with many orders for paint and wallpaper from residents wishing to spruce up their homes for the holidays.

Much More Than Just Luggage

KINGSTON

The wise old owl was the foreunner, but the animals, all kinds, are really coming into their own as gift items this year.

There are wooden owls, gold owls and china owls. There are snails and ducks and birds and they can all be seen and purchased at Kingston Luggage Shop, some in the form of paper weights, others to be used as bookends and still others as conversational statues.

Framed prints of ducks and pheasants also lend themselves to Christmas gift giving.

But it is the paper weights that have taken on a new look this year with modern and traditional versions in china, procelain and lucite.

The delicate china models take on a new form and have been designed as full blown single roses in pink or white or red. Definitely something different and bound to be a favorite with the fair sex. The lucite paper weights are apt to attract the men with such things a watch parts inbedded in a glistening cube, a spread-winged duck sitting in his natural habitat encased in a prism-like form or copper coins floating in a large lucite block.

The porcelain paper weights can be used as such or just as a table-top conversation piece for they are in the form of an egg, some in royal blue, others in gold, all mounted a small gold pedestal.

When asked what particular items was going over "reallly big" this year, Mrs. Clifford Bunting, who does some of the buying for the store, without a moement's hestation mentioned the dog collar fashion jewelry which comes in all sizes and designs this year.

The perfect accessory for today's jumpsuits, pants suits and holiday gowns, the collars come in silver and gold with some wrought in delicate designs while others are big and bold with a number of pedants hanging one from the other.

Other forms of fashion jewelry including colorful Christmas pins are reported as popular as ever with yuletime buyers choosing from among the large selection of earrings, bracelets and pins.

Holiday Blends Many Customs

"Anybody found feasting or observing Christmas day in any way shall pay a fine of five shillings."

And so, throughout New England Pilgrim settlers had to treat Christmas as just another working day. Governor Bradford noted that "no man rested all day" on December 25, 1620, say the editors of Encyclopedia Americana.

Today, in the United States and Canada, Christmas celebrations are a colorful blend of customs from many lands. The main features of the holiday festivities are much the same every where — Santa Claus. Christmas trees, gifts, greetings, feasting, family visits, carol singing.

Each of these cutoms has its own history, and for the student of holiday lore and legend, the fascination lies in the variety of traditions brought by settlers from other lands and assimilated into what is now a truly American or truly Canadian Christmas.

Where Tree Grew

The first Christmas tree was a palm from Egypt. Or it was a huge tree in a forest, symbolic of mankind. Or it was the Paradise Tree of Medieval miracle plays.

Though holiday legend and lore offers many an explanation for the origin of the Christmas tree, nobody knows for sure exactly when and where the first decorated tree appeared.

And who cares? It's fun to hear the legends of the past, with all their mystery and magic, but the thing that matters most is that the adition of the tree is here, adding joy to Christmas.

ISN'T THAT PRETTY—Surely that is what Mrs. Robert Tremper of Ulster Park is saying to her daughter, Diana, as they view the glittering holiday window at Kaye Sportswair, 328 Wall Street. The three-story apparel shop is catering to everyone this holiday season with a large stock of sports and dress clothes. Everythingg from jeans to jumpsuits to jeweled evening bags are available to tempt the holiday shopper. The men's department is on the street floor, women's on the second level and evening gowns and cocktail dresses are in a special salon on the third level.

Wreaths Got Pagan Start

During this holday season, a wide variety of colorful wreaths deck the doorways of homes in this community.

The use of wreaths at holiday time stems from the customs of Advent season—the four Sundays before Christmas. Traditionally, Advent wreaths are made of evergreens, trimmed with ribbons, and hold four candles to be lit during the Sundays of Advent.

The wreath, which has no beginnnig or end, represents eternity, and the evergreens symbolize growth and life, according to the editors of the New Book of Knowledge.

Like many other Christian holiday customs, the Advent wreath originated in pagan ceremonies.

During the dark days of the winter solstice, the sunworshippers of northern Europe sought to please their absent god, the sun, and persuade him to return, by using a wheel trimmed with greenery.

United Open Two Sundays

KINGSTON

Two Sunday openings by United Pharmacy, on Dec. 13 and 20 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. have been announced by Arthur Brown, manager of the gift-laden store at 329 Wall Street in Uptown Kingston.

A pharmacist will be on duty both days as well as sales personnel to help shoppers make their selections and gift wrap their purchases.

For many years now drug stores have been noted for the vast number of non-drug items they sell and United Pharmacy is no exception. Just about anything and everything is available for holiday giving from brightly colored huge stuffed turtles, camels and hippos to panasonic radios, and mens and ladies electric razors. Clairol Company, noted for its hair products, has come out with a new model lady's razor this year, according to Faith Bills, United's cosmetologist.

Providing a full consulting service on beauty problems and aids, Faith said that this year's stock of perfumes, cosmetics and other beauty items is larger than ever with a complete line of Faberge cologne for both men and women including "Brut," "Woodhue" and "Aphrodisia." The Woodhue version also comes in what is called "a weekend set" complete with a bath powder shaker.

Helena Rubenstein's line is as appealing as ever with one model packaged as a basket which includes bath powder, spray cologne and a compact of solid perfume. The basket may be used later as an accessory for the home.

Cosmetics for the tiny tots, boys and girls are gaily decorated and a real treat for little ones who like to smell as good as mom and dad.

And for boys and girls with limited budgets for holiday presents, there are scores of inexpensive items such as hand lotions for mommy and cigars or candy for dad.

Among new products at United Pharmacy this year are Christmas lights for indoors or out and tinsel to decorate the tree or whatever needs some added glitter for the holidays.

Other and attractive yuletime items include travel mirrors with lights, pens, Timex watches and cuff links and tie clasps in large selection.

There are also electric toothbrushes including the water pick, a product of Squibb Company; electric can openers, blenders and small gold frames appropriate for dresser tops.

Gold compacts and matching lipstick cases are eye-catching, produced in the true Helena Rubenstein tradition and Evyan Perfumes Inc. are available with its famous "White Shoulders." United Pharmacy is the only store in Kingston to carry White Shoulders, according to Faith. Arpege and My Sin, popular perfume items, are also attractively packaged for holiday shoppers.

Whether used as stocking stuffers or Christmas gifts in themselves, the Trina line of cosmetic bags, cigarette and eyeglass cases come in a variety of materials and colors. There are corduroy, gold and wet look fabrics and traveling bags come fitted or unfitted. Curler bags, shower and sleep caps round out the line.

Barton's candy, known for its consistent good taste, is another time-honored tradition at United where anyone from eight to 80 is bound to find something to their liking.
